CAPT. KANE OF HARVARD

Thousands Jam Cambridge Stadium to Witness Annual Gridiron Battle Between Crimson and Blue

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Weather conditions for the Harvard-Yale game were more promising at noon today than the early forecast had indicated. Clear weather was in prospect, and the footing, although somewhat soft, was improving.

The sun was beginning to break through a mass of low-hanging clouds and there was a brisk southwest wind which, with the sun, helped to dry out the playing field.

The weather man modified previous predictions of afternoon rains by indicating that they might not come before nightfall.

The unsettled conditions had little effect on the enthusiasm of the thousands of spectators who had gathered from all parts of the east to witness the contest. The exodus from hotels and railroads terminals began at an early hour and before noon long lines of automobiles and pedestrians jammed the streets leading to the Stadium.

Anderson bridge, the approach to the Stadium over the Charles river, was massed solidly with a slow-moving procession passing toward the gates. In all, it was estimated 55,000 persons would see the game.

The extent to which the conditions would interfere with the teams' tactics added a note of uncertainty to discussion of the possibilities of play.

An undefeated Eli eleven, well-developed, powerful and swift of foot, had come to Cambridge to meet a lighter but crafty and alert Crimson team, well equipped with deceptive rush and forward pass. The Blue, using the line-up that tied a 13 to 7 knot in the Princeton Tiger's tail last Saturday, was favored by wagers for the first time in years; but Crimson followers were confident aside from the doubts developed by the weather that the Harvard in its supreme test, could match the stamina of Yale. Both coaches—"Bob" Fisher of Harvard, and "Ad" Jones of Yale—were admittedly disappointed in the turn of the weather.

er, but said the eleven as tentatively selected, would probably start.

The Yale squad, which spent the night at the Belmont Spring Country club, stayed at their quarters this morning, planning to go to the stadium about noon. The Crimson players returned to the city late this forenoon from the Essex Country club on the North Shore where they had passed a quiet night.

Parts of Victims' Bodies and Fragments of Machine Found Mile Away

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Seven persons were instantly killed and a funeral limousine in which they were riding, was demolished when a fast Santa Fe train crashed into the machine as it was crossing the track between Summit and Lyons this morning.

Parts of the victims' bodies and fragments of the machine were strewn along the track for nearly a mile. The accident occurred at a bend in the road. It was thought the driver was unable to see the approaching train because of a driving snow storm.

DALTON IS HELD FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT

William J. Dalton, charged with breaking and entering in the night time the store of Ephraim Christopoulos, at the corner of Dutton and Fletcher streets, and with stealing two quarts of peanuts valued at one dollar, was held for the superior court by Judge Fisher in district court today. Bail was fixed at $500. Officer Thomas B. Riley, who arrested the defendant, testified that at 2:30 o'clock this morning, while pulling in his box, he heard the noise of breaking glass.

Shortly after, he passed by Christopoulos' store, saw the pane of glass that had been broken and noticed a man in the store. The policeman entered and took Dalton into custody. He further told the court that he found a weight, such as is used in lowering railroad crossing gates, inside the door of the store. The heavy iron piece was shown to the judge.

The defendant stated he was in the company of two other men in the vicinity when he heard the crash of glass. Dalton went to the direction whence the noise had come and "got there before the officer," he told the judge. The two companions had left him, but he entered the store and "investigated." He admitted he was in the store when the officer came along, but stoutly denied he broke the glass.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—A manifesto issued today by the labor party in behalf of the whole labor movement of Great Britain promises support of any steps to make the American proposals for naval armament reduction effective, and calls for the extension of the proposals to all forms of armament.

The text of the manifesto declares the labor movement "welcomes and accepts wholeheartedly the program of substantial and progressive reductions proposed by the United States at the opening of the present conference, and will support any measures necessary on the side of Great Britain for giving effect to these proposals."

CHARGE ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

John N. Santos, of Summer street, was arraigned before Judge Fisher in district court today on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Counsel for the defendant waived examination and Santos was ordered held under bail of $3000 for the superior court. It is alleged that the accused shot Thomas J. McDermott, of Charles street, at the corner of Middlesex and Elliot streets, on the night of October 15. McDermott, who, until last week, was confined to a local hospital, appeared in court with wounds in his lower jaw still bandaged.

COUNCIL MEETING

A special meeting of the municipal council has been called by Mayor Thompson to be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The main business to be transacted is the drawing of jurors for demurrers which have come up in superior court at East Cambridge. The delegation from the Lower Highlands Improvement Association, headed by Thomas J. Fitzgerald, which has been pressing the Washington park playground proposition, spent a couple of hours at city hall this morning, waiting for the arrival of the mayor to hold a conference with the municipal council relative to the city solicitor's progress in preparing for the seizure of the property. The four other commissioners were on hand but the mayor was detained, so shortly after 11 o'clock the delegation decided to arrange a conference for a later date.

"No one ever regretted saving money and making it earn interest. That's reason enough for starting a bank account today." So said J. P. Morgan, and certainly J. P. knew the definition of INTEREST, going and coming.

NINE PERSONS INJURED IN TROLLEY CRASH

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Nine persons sustained minor injuries and a score were frightened and badly shaken up shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, when two "L" cars, one heavily loaded with passengers, crashed at right angles at the corner of Hampshire and Prospect sts., Cambridge.

The police ambulance from Station 2, Central square, made several trips to the Cambridge City hospital and Cambridge City hospital, with passengers whose injuries required treatment.

Both cars were thrown from the tracks. The lights went out. Windows were shattered. The front vestibule of the one-man car crumpled up as if made of paper, and the vestibule of the articulated car, which received the full force of the collision, was crushed in.

CLIMAX OF CAMPAIGN REACHED IN WHIRLWIND TOURS

Mayorality Fight Waxes Warmer Every Hour—Other At Large Contests Quiet—Hot Time in Wards—The Ballot—Vote Early

As usual the Saturday preceding the municipal primaries brings the climax of the campaign, and so tonight the candidates for the leading offices, who have been speaking at outdoor rallies, will make a whirlwind tour of the city. There is scarcely a square of any importance in the downtown district at which several speakers will not be heard tonight. The mayorality candidates and some others have announced their speaking itinerary in newspaper advertisements and many of the councilor candidates follow these appointments and mount the platform in turn to address the various crowds after the mayorality candidates depart.

On the mayorality contest all kinds of predictions are heard, although few of the candidates are mentioned by the majority as the most probable winners. These predictions, however, are usually based upon the wishes of those who make them and are, therefore, unreliable, although disinterested parties can usually form a fairly accurate idea of the probable outcome, and can judge public sentiment sufficiently to predict with reasonable certainty who the winners will be. It is remarkable, however, that changes come suddenly on the eve of elections and that those who would win if the election were held today may lose ground before the actual date of the voting arrives.

One politician last night made the statement that he believed the vote for three of the candidates would run very close and that possibly the fourth might be but a short distance behind the third. That statement was based on what he heard from the dopsters from various parts of the city and from a great number of distinct political elements. At first it was assumed the Dr. Mignault had entered the fight too late to make much impression, but that feeling has passed, and now it is the general belief that the doctor will get the bulk of the French vote and a fair sprinkling from other elements of the electorate.

One of the candidates is making bitter attacks upon Mayor Thompson and promising a revolution in city affairs. If he should be nominated and elected, the mayor is defending his administration and promising faithful service to the people. A third candidate assails the mayor's administration at city hall, and lays down certain policies which he claims would bring about better conditions and a lower tax rate. Another candidate indulges in no personal attacks or criticisms of anybody, merely stating in his public speeches that he stands upon his record as a public servant, upon his fidelity to the people, and on this ground asks their support. Still another candidate has limited his canvass to appeals through public appearances, pledging reform and a strictly business administration should he be elected. The seventh candidate, also active and is making a vigorous campaign, promising reforms and criticizing the present administration. It is worthy of note that at many of the rallies held during the present week, a fair proportion of the crowds was made up of women who seemed to take a keen interest in the remarks of the speakers.

EDWIN W. FIELD

"I'm convinced if I had taken Tanlac two years ago, when my troubles first began, I would have been saved a world of suffering," said Ed W. Field, 525 Jefferson street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"My case proved that when a man's stomach goes wrong, everything goes wrong with him. The first thing I noticed out of the way was loss of appetite and next, that no matter how sparingly I ate, I was sure to have an attack of indigestion. This was two years ago and from that time on, until after I started on Tanlac, I kept going down hill at a steady rate. I finally got so I couldn't walk, a couple of blocks without having to stop and rest and I was so nervous that I often sat up in a chair all night long."

Tanlac and Tanlac's Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store under the personal direction of Wright Drug Co., Boston, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

are also active in the campaign, some of them advertising through the press and also making speeches at outdoor rallies. This list is so large that it is absolutely futile for a newspaper to offer any counsel to voters beyond that of asking them to use their best judgment in selecting the men who are most likely to give the city honest and efficient service. In the list of 62 candidates for the office of councilor at large, there are about twenty men who are fully competent to fill the office with credit to themselves and the city and it remains for the voters to select from these the twelve to be nominated next Tuesday and go before the voters at the final election.

The School Board

The fight for school board has attracted but little attention, although it is understood that several of the candidates are making an active campaign throughout the city. Some of the men have addressed outdoor rallies, and a few of them have automobiles with big banners announcing their candidacy. The candidacy of seven women has enlisted the attention of the voters and several of these candidates have appeared in outdoor rallies. Some of the least desirable candidates are making the most urgent appeals. It is of the utmost importance that the electorate shall send no unfit candidate to the school board.

The Ballot

On account of the large number of candidates on the ballot, it is to be regretted that the polls cannot be opened before noon for the reason that the charter provides that at the primary election, the polls shall be open at noon and close at nine o'clock in the evening. It is further stated that if a number of voters are in line at nine o'clock when the polling booths close, they must be allowed to cast their ballots, even after that hour. This, however, is a legal point with the election commission will have to decide.

There is some criticism of the form in which the ballot has been turned out, based especially on the fact that part of the list of candidates for councilor at large is in a separate column without any heading to indicate that it is a continuation of the preceding column. The candidates whose names are in this part of the list think it will affect them injuriously, but it appears now to be too late to have the ballot changed.

Vote Early

Let it be understood that it is of the utmost importance that as many as possible shall vote before 5 o'clock on Tuesday, so as to leave the way clear for those who are employed in the stores and factories during the day. The voting booths are too small to accommodate a large crowd and hence the necessity of having as many as possible vote before 5 o'clock when the factories close and thereby prevent crowding.

Another New Problem

The election commission and others interested in the municipal elections are confronted with a new problem. The new charter provides that at all primaries candidates for office must draw for positions on the ballot, but nothing is said relative to the procedure at the final election.

The commission is inclined to favor another drawing, in which the fifty nominees will again contest for positions. They will decide the matter at an early date. On the other hand, the argument is advanced that the names should be printed on the final election ballot in the same order in which they were drawn in the first place. No doubt the commission will hear the opinions of most of the candidates on this question during the next few days.

Would-be registrants still continue to appear at the commission's office, seeking to get their names on the voting lists for next Tuesday. They cannot be accommodated, however, since the lists have already gone to the printer. One woman called up this morning and made inquiries relative to registration and it developed that she had been told by someone that she could vote next Tuesday and register later, since her other qualifications were O.K. The impression was immediately corrected.

ing to Paul J. Angelo, candidate for councilor from ward 5, and his father, have come to the election commission. Daniel F. Moriarty is particularly emphatic in his denial, and says he hopes the wrong will be righted, and James J. Kearney writes to the same effect. All the candidates have denied the letter's authorship in one way or another.

The commission has made all provisions for the primary, and all the necessary printing is already completed or will be completed in ample time.

The action of tort of $2000 brought by John A. LOWELL HOME FOR CHILDREN

Miss O'Leary Plans Big Time for Children on Thanksgiving Day

The Lowell Children's Home in the heart of the city, founded by Miss Ellen O'Leary, familiarly known to children old and young as "Auntie" Ellen, is to celebrate its 20th birthday on January 1, 1922. Great plans are being made for the celebration. There will be "open house" all the week beginning on New Year's day, and old friends and many new ones will be there to help "Auntie" with the celebration.

The founder of this home for little children has given more than 40 years of her life to the work in Lowell. Many of the homeless, lost, and orphaned children of the past two decades in the home maintained by Miss O'Leary with the help of charitable persons, have been taken from most unfortunate surroundings and later sent out into the world again splendidly equipped with all the necessary resources that have brought happiness and success into their lives. Plenty of testimony has come to the headquarters of the Children's Home in after years giving "Auntie" O'Leary entire credit for wonderful aid given to little children, who were helped to lay the solid foundations of their success by this woman who tells you that she "loves children."

But before the plans for the anniversary celebration are completed, there is something else that the founder and matron of this home is preparing to do. Very modestly and without going into the whole story, "Auntie" O'Leary told the Sun yesterday that she is planning to give the boys and girls at the home one of the finest Thanksgiving feasts and entertainments ever known at the institution in Hosford square. There are now about 20 boys and girls cared for here, and just look at what "Auntie" is going to give them when they are called into the big dining room Thanksgiving day about 10:30 p. m. Real Thanksgiving turkey, brown and juicy, with tiny little cloves all stuck around the breast bone and little sprigs of green leaves putting a neat finish on the "meat mountain"; white and sweet potatoes, mashed; onions, squash, mince pies, cranberry sauce, English pudding, dates, apples, and—candy!

That is going to be "Auntie" O'Leary dish for the little folks next Thursday. And there are going to be a lot of people there besides—not curious folks, but real folks with real hearts and real smiles and real stories and a lot of real things. And in the big halls. Goblins were hiding night, when the games will last until after 9 o'clock—well, don't blame "Auntie" nor the folks who are going there to take part in the big fun. Folks always stay up late Thanksgiving night, you know, and this is to be a real celebration this year.

Halloween night, the boys and girls couldn't sleep at all, they had so much fun around the home grounds and in the big halls. Goblins were hiding under the big staircase, and even "Auntie" O'Leary had to drive out some of the broomstick wanderers, who had no business in that House of Delight. And Dreamland simply was off the map that evening; with every train bound that way stalled on some happy track by the wayside. But Thanksgiving night is to be even better than that, so the children told a Sun man yesterday.

And Christmas, too, is coming not so many weeks away. And that is about the best time of the year, isn't it? "Auntie" agrees that if Christmas didn't come once in a while, she would hardly have the heart to keep on her fight to bring cheer and love to homeless children.

The work at the Children's Home is supported by public charity and by small weekly amounts paid for the board and care of some of the children. These strenuous times are a great tax upon the resources of the home. In the new location, however, the children have room for healthful exercise. The work has grown and still grows with the growth of the city.

There is a constant need of money, fuel and provisions, such as food and clothing and similar supplies. All contributions are very gratefully received by the matron and promptly acknowledged. It is hoped that those who would like to aid the institution during the Thanksgiving and Christmas season, give what they can to aid the work.

Edw. W. Griffin is president of the home, Edward W. Trull treasurer, and Miss O'Leary matron. Visitors are always cordially welcome.

The home was formerly located at 80 Kirk street, in a place known as "the Dr. Savory house." It has been for the past five years located in Hosford square in a building on what was "the Samuel Wood estate." Many improvements had to be made before the building inspectors of city and state would allow it to be used as a children's institution, but now everything is in ship-shape. Improvements are constantly being made inside the building as funds permit, but charity is not always regular in serving the needs of the deserving, and some work necessary during the past few months has not been done. It is hoped by the matron that friends will visit the home more frequently, study the work that is being done and take more interest in its success.

Friends of the Children's Home are invited to the Thanksgiving day celebration and also the Christmas tree festivities, and "Auntie" O'Leary promises to open the door and show everybody just where Jimmy, Josie, Helena and Patsie are going to sit, right near the head table, so they won't miss anything. And there is going to be singing and "eats" and speech-making (limited to one and one-half minutes per speaker), and they whisper behind the curtains over in the corner so no one else will hear, that a man from city hall is going to drive up around 2 or 3 o'clock in his big car and hop right out, climb the front steps and walk right in and say how-do-you-do-folks to every little man and woman around that big dinner table.

THE RED CROSS FUNDS CAMPAIGN

The Red Cross campaign for funds in Lowell is not coming up to the expectations of Chairman George R. Chandler. While a fair number of subscriptions has come in, the list is not so large as the campaigners hoped it would be. Mr. Chandler announced today that all who have not sent their dollars to Red Cross headquarters at 55 Merrimack street or to one of the sub-stations in the stores downtown, do so at once. The present drive ends on Thanksgiving day.

Subscriptions may now be left at the Adams Hardware store on Middlesex street, Macartney's clothing store, and all the National banks in Lowell.

Attention Mr. Voter!

Tremendous power for good or evil is vested in the hands of the Mayor under the New Charter.

Honesty and Integrity are absolutely necessary in a Public Officer with such power.

What Candidate for Mayor outstandingly represents Honesty and Integrity in Public Office?

Pre-Eminently Qualified For the Office

THE SELECTION OF A MAYOR this year calls for pretty sound reasoning. The increased responsibilities of the office make the issue plain and unmistakable—It is Qualification and Ability—and not partisanship or anything else that must count. On that issue Perry D. Thompson stands pre-eminent among his opponents.

HIS BROAD AND LIBERAL interpretation of the duties of Mayor has won for him the admiration and respect of all classes of citizens who are fair and reasonable in their conclusions.

A MAYOR NOT REMOVED from the people, but near to them,—and their public servant in the full sense of the word.

SENSATIONALISM without merit and over-indulgence in vitriolic expression are not his arguments for office. Promises impossible of fulfillment and negative public service do not constitute his claims for preferment.

A SOUND, CONSERVATIVE supervision of public expenditures; selection of qualified men for public office; initiative and enterprise in the discharge of public duty; a willingness to serve all the people, day or night, public or private, and a Mayor who will creditably represent our city upon any occasion ARE THE QUALIFICATIONS OF MAYOR THOMPSON FOR OFFICE.

HE DOES NOT HAVE TO PROMISE THIS; HIS PUBLIC SERVICE HAS ALREADY PROVED IT.

You serve your own best interest and that of your city, when you vote for Perry D. Thompson. THIS IS NO IDLE STATEMENT, BUT THE PLAIN, WHOLESOME TRUTH. THEN, WHY NOT VOTE FOR HIM?

Signed, MRS. WALTER L. PARKER, 270 Wilder Street.

BUT HE GOT THE PICTURE

"No wonder Foch won the war," says Bob Dorman, our New York photographer. "His judgment is perfect." Western legionnaires presented Foch with a wildcat which Foch appraised and promptly placed in the New York zoo for safekeeping. Bob went up to take the wildcat's picture. To do this successfully it was necessary to enter the wildcat's cage. A brave keeper went in to help. The wildcat resented the intrusion at the expense of Bob's trousers. (Bob was retreating at the time!) The keeper grabbed the animal and got a split nose for his courage. Both men were painfully scratched.

Mother and Two Children Found Dead

WILMINGTON, Nov. 19.—The bodies of Mrs. Henry Canse and her two children, one a girl of 12, and the other a boy of four, were found beside the Boston & Maine railroad tracks near the North Wilmington station today. They apparently had been struck by a train while walking through a deep cut with high ledges on either side during the thick fog.

RECEPTION AND DANCE AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Members of the faculty and a large number of students and friends were in attendance at the Normal school last night when the students gave their first reception and dance of the winter season. The social committee of the school and society league, Miss Ruth Walker of Lowell, chairman, was in charge. Dancing was featured from 7 until 11 o'clock.

The decoration of the hall was capably handled by a committee headed by Miss Louise O'Brien of Somerville, and Miss Viola Marsh of Cambridge supervised the musical arrangements. The committee on refreshments, Miss Marietta O'Donnell of Lowell, chairman, the committee on printing, Miss Ruth McDonald of Allston, chairman, and the committee on invitations, Miss Daisy Precious of Westford, chairman, contributed in great measure to the affair's success. The reception and dance were chaperoned by the following: Mrs. Clarence M. Weed, Miss Frances Clark and Miss Helen Hogan.

The complete roster of the committee is as follows:

tees in charge follows: Social, chairman, Ruth Walker; decoration committee, Louise O'Brien, Mary Reynolds, Elsie Burns, Ruth Smith, Rose Parlock, Lillian Ryan; refreshment committee, chairman, Marietta O'Donnell, Gertrude Fay, Louise Fay, Ruth Douger, Virginia Sargent, Elaine Madigan; invitation committee, chairman, Daisy Precious, Nelda Cross, Helen Ryan; printing committee, chairman, Ruth McDonald; music committee, chairman, Viola Marsh, Daisy Precious, Eleanor Sullivan, Margaret Kiley, Madeline Allen, Marjorie Kiley, Madeline Allen, Marion Garvey, Lillian Salice.

Man Who Fired on Lifeboats Breaks Jail

HAMBURG, Nov. 19.—Former Lieut. Commander Johann Bolot, who, with Lieut. Dittmar was convicted of manslaughter for firing on the lifeboats of the Canadian hospital ship Ilandoverly Castle after the vessel had been torpedoed in the summer of 1918, has escaped from prison here. Bolot was found guilty by the supreme court at Leipzig in July, and sentenced to four years' imprisonment. The charge against him and Dittmar originally was first degree murder, but was changed on the ground that the officers "acted on the impulse of the moment." Commander Patzig of the submarine which torpedoed the Ilandoverly Castle, fled the country to escape trial.

Deny Charge Against Sec. of Labor Davis

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—Denial of the charge credited to Secretary of Labor Davis that the price of eggs and turkeys was mounting and that storage warehouse interests were responsible, was made here last night by Frank A. Horn of New York, president of the American Association of Refrigeration. There are few turkeys in storage at the present time, he said, and the prices quoted are for fresh fowl.

Ulster Parliament Called to Meet Nov. 29

BELFAST, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Both houses of the Ulster parliament have been called by their respective speakers to meet Nov. 29. When parliament adjourned Oct. 4 until Dec. 31 it was announced by Sir James Craig, the premier, that arrangements had been made to summon it to meet at an earlier date in case of emergency.

Disguised at Letter Carrier, Steals $3000

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—An adroit thief, wearing the uniform of the postal service, obtained a package of money containing several thousand dollars from a letter carrier here yesterday and is still at large. The man, bearing what was thought to be proper credentials, approached the letter carrier near a postal terminal station, presented an order supposed to have been signed by John Drew, chief of the letter carriers, and directed the carrier to hand over the parcel. He told the carrier that Mr. Drew thought it best to make special delivery of the package rather than have the carrier take the risk of carrying it about on his rounds. It was handed over without question. The package contained, according to the estimates of postoffice officials, about $3000.

Lumber Dealers Extend Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—American producers of hardwood timber and lumber have an excellent opportunity now to extend their foreign sales, the commerce department stated today. The most promising elds, it was said, were in such countries as Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Mexico and British South Africa. The department asserted oak has been growing in popularity in South American countries which together with other North American hard woods could be still further popularized by judicious exploitation.

NO, NO, NOT WAR—JUST POLITICS!

More than words flew thick and fast in the political battle between communists and fascists at Bergeggi, Italy. Dynamite and bombs made the town look like a shambles of war. The Pathé News photographer who took the picture was lucky to get off with his life.

No Space Is Wasted in This
Two-Story, Six-Room House

It is easy to heat this model home, and their treatment; by the arrangement of the rooms themselves.
The English type of architecture is finding a constantly increasing popularity in this country. That fact is not hard to understand when we recall that it is the most domestic of all domestic types, and that the Americans are a home-loving people.
Sleeping rooms, bath and snow, and many chambers, overlooking sunshine bespeak the English love of the great outdoors. Yet the English insist upon privacy, too. This characteristic is reflected in English architecture by the design of the exterior doors; by the location of the porches, the other upon a stair hall. The hall is shielded from drafts and intrusion by a vestibule, so essential in a well planned home.

There are French doors between dining room and porch, and pairs of casements at the side and rear.
Kitchen Is Roomy
In the kitchen there is space for range, refrigerator, built-in cupboard, sink with two drainboards, and a built-in ironing board.
Another sink and many convenient cupboards make the pantry a kitchenette in itself. Between kitchen and dining room, it keeps pots and odors of the kitchen out of the dining room.
The three bedrooms upstairs fairly revel in closet space. There are large ones and small, tray cases, linen closet, and a built-in dressing table.
Light and ventilation they have in goodly measure, too. The sleeping porch adds materially to the housing capacity of this home.
A large, well ventilated attic not only provides storage space, but means cooler rooms in summer and a more easily heated house in winter.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Stockyards workers in plants of the "big five" packers throughout the middlewest today were making their decision upon the wage cut fixed by the local Armour, Swift and Wilson employees themselves, after inspection of their employers' books. The cut is eight per cent for pieceworkers who comprise about half the employees and from 3 to 7½ cents an hour for others. Plant committees of the Armour &

Final Clash of Seasonal Football War of the "Big Three" at Cambridge Today

BOXING

The boxing fans of the city are related to the continued success of Billy Murphy, the Acre youth who added the veteran Kid Thompson to his list of victims the other night. Many figured that Thomas would be a "hard nut" for Murphy to crack, but he proved his earlier opponent since striking the ring. Thomas was completely outclassed from the start, and the local lad was able to employ his famous left advantageously. To date Murphy has yet to meet his great and his supporters now feel confident that he is capable of holding his own with any boy of his weight.

Manager Dodge is busy on plans for his holiday card. He has arranged two ten-round numbers and one six and expects to sign up the participants in his other preliminary some time today.

Barney Burke and Mike Castle who fought a slashing ten round bout here a short time ago, with Castle being awarded the decision, have been re-matched. If their coming out is anything like the previous mill it will be well worth seeing. Castle got an early lead on Burke in the former meeting scoring a knockdown at the outset, but Burke fought a great uphill battle and many felt that he had the better of the going. The judges and referee, ruled otherwise, but a second meeting, Burke says, will give him an opportunity to show that he is Castle's master.

Steve Gustin who made a great hit here a year ago, will make his first appearance of the season against Young Jack Sharkey of New Bedford in the second ten round event. Sharkey who was defeated by Billy Travers, the sensational featherweight, feels that he can do better against Gustin and his sincerity has impressed the local promoter sufficiently to give him another chance.

Sam Langford is signed for a bout at Phoenix Nov. 22.

Chick Hayes of the Salem club has matched Eddie Flynn and Joe Larne for the semi-final bout at the club's show Monday night. Billy Woods and Pommery McFarland box in the feature number.

Marty Killilea, manager of Johnny Wilson, states that Wilson is not matched to fight Young Fitzsimmons of Oklahoma in New Orleans. Marty says he never had any negotiations for such a bout.

Today's Sport Angle

Playing the game square pays. It pays to give your best efforts on the ball field.

It pays to accept the bitter with the sweet without a whimper.

It pays to conduct yourself on and off the field in a manner that will bring credit to your profession.

Those four sentences tell the story of the career of Christy Mathewson, the once great pitcher, now fighting for his life against tuberculosis. The fans have not forgotten about him away up there in the Adirondack mountains. His deeds and his actions form an epoch in baseball history that will live forever.

The other day the news report carried a story that a check for $30,000 had been sent to Mathewson. That day sun represented the receipts of a benefit game played at the Polo grounds for the great "Matty." It was the largest sum, by thousands of dollars, ever taken in at the gate for such a cause. It was a testimonial of the fans showing their great regard for him and was a great tribute, richly deserved.

Speaking of "Matty," I recall an incident that happened at the close of the 1912 series. The series was over. Matty had been defeated in the final game because of the now famous Snodgrass muff, coupled with a few other errors of omission. He had pitched a remarkable game and lost. Waiting at the Back Bay station in Boston, he saw a crowd of about 150 rooters accompanied them.

Fitchburg high has had a fairly successful season so far this year and has given the making of the state great battles. The one week out of the team is that they have no dependable goal from touchdown kicker. Through this weakness they lost two games by the one point margin. In their captain, Joe Tarpey, Fitchburg, has one of the fastest men in high school circles.

Lowell rolled on the ground gaining ability of Artie Conway and Gus Normandin the state backs to bring home the touchdowns this afternoon. This pair was counted on to lead the state of the starting today. Pete Sheehan was all set to step in his place in the event of any injury of any of the backs. Fitchburg was represented by a much heavier line than Lowell's but the fight that Coach Eddie Cawley has instilled in his pupils was expected to more than offset this disadvantage. Long started the game at tackle and Rowlandson at center. Long showed was expected to continue to lead the work today. With another year's experience he will hold his own with the best of them. Coach Cawley was expected to send a lot of subs into the game today and give them their first taste of the real thing. The Lowell lineup at the start of the game was: Gleason, left half; Long, McManis, tackle; Winter, Sullivan, guard; Rowlandson, center; Captain, Johnston, quarter; Conway left half; Hilton, right half; Gus Normandin full.

Casey Stengel is goat of Hoyt's sarcasm.

OF HOYT'S SARCASM

Waiter Hoyt, star twirler of the New York American, comes from one of the first families of Brooklyn. He is a graduate of the exclusive Erasmus school. However, one gets the advantages of a liberal education in the University of Baseball. If you have your doubts, peruse the following bit of world series reported.

During the series, the members of the Giants did not take kindly to the way Hoyt, a former Giant himself, was fooling them at the plate. Casey Stengel, a Giant bench warmer, was evidently delegated to get Hoyt's goat. Hoyt usually employs unique methods. As Hoyt was working back to the Yankee bench after being thrown out at first, Stengel tossed a small package at Hoyt, which fell at his feet. Hoyt picked it up, opened the package, and extracted therefrom a small cake of highly perfumed soap. Immediately he was the target for a "razing" from the Giant bench. Stengel acting as cheer leader, howled, however, proved equal to the occasion. The son of one of Brooklyn's first families hurled the soap back at the Giant's bench. His perfect control was with him, the cake striking Stengel on the head and with it came these cruel words:

CADETS TO PLAY LAWRENCE TEAM

Tomorrow afternoon the O.M.I. Cadets and the C.Y.M.A. of Lawrence will clash on the North common. The Lawrence boys are coming in with a clean slate, having won every game they played this year. Among their victims are the Mittens of Boston, St. James' high of Haverhill, and the Wanderers of Roxbury. The above mentioned are considered among New England's best.

This only means the Cadets will have one of the stiffest opponents they have yet tackled this year to deal with.

"Jerry" O'Sullivan will start the game by lifting the plunk at the kick-off in the first period.

Players are requested to report on the common at 2 p.m. sharp.

Game starts promptly at 3 o'clock.

The Young Emeralds challenge any 70 or 80-lb. team in the city, the Hustlers or Gleamers. Third preferred. The Young Emeralds' lineup is as follows: Ryan, C. A. Charrette, rg. W. Barry, lg. Burke to L. Graham, lf. Fitzgerald, re. L. Lehoucq, cf. Sheehan, qb. W. Stirk, rbb. G. Duprez, lb. F. Gauthier, fb. For arrangements answer through this paper or see Manager C. Gauthier.

Sunday afternoon on the old fair grounds the Butler A. and the Dorchester All-Stars will clash. The Butlers have had a very successful season this year, numbering among their games a tie with the Indians. On the Dorchester team are such stars as Barry and Kellan of Boston college, and Mathewson and Dalton of the All-Scholastic team. The Butlers will present their regular lineup which they feel will be strong enough to bring home the bacon. Red O'Leary and Arlie Conway are in great shape and will give the Dorchester team something to worry about. A hard-fought game is expected and a record-breaking crowd should witness the battle. They will start at 3 p.m.

Mayor Thompson will start the game.

Charley Moran, Umpire, Tobacco Grower, Football Coach, Cobbler and Tailor

MORAN DOES THE COBBLING FOR THE BOYS AT CENTRE

BY BILLY EVANS

(Copyright, 1921, Lowell Sun.) Coach Charley Moran of Centre college, is a busy individual. In the summer he acts as an umpire in the National league. The umpire job lasts only six months, but it usually provides enough action for most of the arbiters for the entire year.

Charley Moran is the exception. He goes from baseball to football, with a bit of dabbling into the tobacco industry on the side. The section of Kentucky from which he hails produces some of the finest tobacco in the United States. As a coach, Moran is perhaps the busiest mentor of football in the business.

Last year, after the close of the American league season, I was on my way to Erie, Pa., to umpire a ball game that had all the natives of that section of the country on edge. On the train I met a former Harvard football star, just returning from Danville, Ky., where Centre college is located. He had been down scouting the Centre team for about ten days. As Moran is a warm personal friend of mine, I asked about him, and the chances of his team to beat Harvard.

"I met Moran in a peculiar way," said the former Harvard man, after telling me that Moran was feeling fine and that he had a team that would worry Harvard. "In all his schools," he continued, "the head football coach is supreme. He has a corps of assistants, a trainer and a physical condition of the team. A cobbler to take care of the football shoes, and a tailor to look after the suits, jerseys, pads and the like."

"When I arrived at Centre college, as is now customary in the scouting game, I started to look up the head coach to introduce myself, and announce my mission. Going into the gymnasium, I asked one of the students where I would find Coach Moran. He told me in a small room at the end of the hall. Arriving there, I noticed a man nailing cleats on some football shoes, and looking for all the world like a cobbler, I asked him where I would find Coach Moran.

"Talking to him," he said without ever stopping his work for an instant, "it took me about a minute to recover my bearings and find my speech. Finally I made myself known. Moran greeted me cordially, apologized for his cobbler attire, and explained how different things were at Centre than at Harvard. Incidentally, he asked me further indulgence while he repaired a couple of uniforms."

Here was the head coach, a jack of all trades. That was over a year ago. Moran has put Centre on the football map. Centre's share of the Harvard game will probably add enough to the treasury so that the college can afford a cobbler to look after the football shoes, and a tailor to mend the uniforms.

YALE-HARVARD GAME TODAY

Clash Marks the Peak of Interest in Eastern Gridiron Play

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The final clash in the seasonal football war of the "big three" with the undefeated eleven of Yale and the Crimson of Harvard as the opposing factions in the clash of interest in the eastern gridiron play today. Numerous other major college elevens were idle, awaiting their final games on Thanksgiving day.

Yale had been chosen by the host of gridiron experts to turn back the Crimson, who held it last Jones' plunging band of youngsters ran true to past performances, they would be the undisputed champions of the large title. For Princeton, defeated by the New Haven eleven, should the fast, tried exponents of the Fisher brand of football triumph, however, a title to be won would result.

Over in Boston, as a side attraction to the Harvard-Yale contest, George Mount St. Mary's eleven was at Gettysburg. Allegheny met Geneva at Meadville and Massachusetts Academics were ready for Tufts at Amherst.

Both the army and navy squads rested today, after a week of hard work in preparation for the annual game next Saturday at the Polo grounds.

Lawrence Turned Back, 6 to 2—Lowell's Ninth Victory in Last Eleven Games

The Lowell polo team made it nine victories out of its last eleven games by handing a defeat to the Lawrence club at the Crescent rink last night by the score of 6 to 2.

Three weeks ago Lowell made a clean sweep of its four games. The following week, it won two and lost two, and of the three games played this week, all have been recorded in the win column for Lowell.

In that period the team has tackled about all the other clubs in the league, but Salem and New Bedford were the only ones to triumph over the Quigley speedsters.

Last night's game found Lowell continuing where it left off at Portland the night before. While Lawrence got the first goal of the game, Lowell quickly tied it up, and from that point on the locals had the advantage.

Lowell's team play was impressive, with Davies, Alexander and Quigley as busy as bees in the offensive operations and Norrison and Blount performing up to the mark in the defensive. For Lawrence Lovegreen was the star in the hitting line, obtaining kept Lowell's score down considerably. Paddy Foley, playing his last game here as a member of the Lawrence outfit, was in hard luck all night. He worked strenuously and Davies and Alexander at every opportunity.

Twice during the game Paddy met with injuries. Once a ball driven by Alexander hit him in the jaw, and later he was struck over the eye by Davies's stick. But he continued in the game.

Harkins and Griffith worked at top speed all the way for the visitors and George Hart kept busy but was unable to get a goal. He got two assists, "left goals," one by accident and the other as a result of a foul in goal. The accidental goal came when during a scrimmage in front of Lovegreen, Foley kicked the "left" into the net. Griffith, however, got the other goal. Lovegreen was hit by the ball while in the circle with Lovegreen. The line-up:

THANKSGIVING IN YE OLDEN TIME

Observance of the Day as
100 Years Ago

Day Was Not Always Observed on Last Thursday
in November

Saturday Letter by The Sun's
State House Correspondent
is Interesting

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Those who look upon Thanksgiving Day as an opportunity for sports, or for other pleasures or recreation, should give thanks next Thursday that they are living in the present generation, and were not among those who, one hundred years ago, observed the day as proclaimed by John Brooks, the then governor of Massachusetts.

Governor Brooks, in the closing paragraph of his proclamation, directed his fellow citizens to "abstain from all labor and recreation inconsistent with the religious services of the day."

That ancient proclamation gives proof of the fact that Thanksgiving day has not always been observed on the last Thursday of November. In 1821, Governor Brooks, decided the sixth day of December would be a fitting occasion, and in order that none of his fellow citizens might not have timely notice of his selection, he issued his proclamation on the 12th day of October.

Only a few years earlier it had been the custom to observe the day immediately after the close of the harvest season, during the late October and early November days, so it is now established that the date has covered a range of at least six or seven weeks on the calendar.

That proclamation of one hundred years ago is also interesting in that practically its every line bespeaks the desire of the author that a proper offering of thanks be given to the Great Ruler of the Universe for His blessings. Except for the last paragraph, which has been quoted above, it reads:

"The increasing exercise of the benevolence of Almighty God towards His rational creatures, of which the people of this state so largely participate, ought to excite in us the most cordial returns of gratitude, as well as a suitable sense of our dependence on Him for all the enjoyments of this and the hopes of a better life. The uncommon blessings which the present season has brought with it have corresponding claims on us for expressions of devout praise and thanksgiving."

"I have, therefore, thought fit to appoint, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, in conformity to the plans practice of our revered forefathers, I do hereby appoint Thursday, the sixth day of December next, to be observed as a day of thanksgiving and prayer throughout the commonwealth. And the people of every religious denomination are requested to assemble in their respective places of public worship on that day, unitedly to offer to the Divine Benefactor of all our blessings, the humble sacrifice of thanksgiving and praise: That He hath in the course of the present year, preserved among the people of this state an unusual degree of health, of tranquility and good fellowship; That our moral, religious and social enjoyments and our civil and political privileges have been continued to us; That our nation, now on terms of amity with all other nations, is fast recovering from the paralyzing effects of war; That our agriculture, manufactures and commerce, are in a state of progressive hopeful improvement; That the seasons of the year have been ordered in much mercy, so that our fields have yielded a rich increase and we have an abundant supply of the fruits of the earth and the productions of the sea."

"And while we render to God our grateful tribute of praise for the various blessings with which He has been pleased freely to indulge us, may we be led duly to realize our own unworthiness, and the great abuse with which we are chargeable, of many of the distinguishing tokens of His goodness, and penitently seek to Him for the remission of all our transgressions through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus." That He will be pleased to bless the people of the commonwealth in their government. In their schools and colleges. In their literary, moral and religious instructors, and in all their institutions for promoting piety, charity and benevolence, and that finally the religion of the gospel of Jesus Christ may be universally spread through the world, that the whole earth may be filled with the Glory of God."

ARMAMENT CONFERENCE IN ACTION!

THIS gives a complete view of the disarmament conference in session at Washington. Cameras are barred from the conference room, but in this sketch that Artist E. R. Higgins of the N. E. A. Service staff made from the gallery, there is all the exactness and detail that would be shown in a photograph. Reading around the horseshoe table from left to right, the delegates are: Viscount D'Almeida of Portugal, Dr. V. Wellington Koo, China; S. K. Alfred Sze, China; Chung Hui Wang, China; Baron Kijuro Shidehara, Japan; Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, Japan; Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, Japan; Jules Jusserand, France; Albert Sarraut, France; Rene Viviani, France; Aristide Briand, France; Oscar Underwood, United States; Henry Cabot Lodge, United States; Elihu Root, United States; Charles Evans Hughes, United States, chairman, standing; Arthur J. Balfour, Great Britain; Lord Lee of Fareham, Great Britain; Sir Auckland Geddes, Great Britain; Sir Robert Borden, Great Britain; George F. Pearce, Great Britain; Sir J. W. Salmood, Great Britain; V. S. Srinivasa Sastri, Great Britain; Senator Carlo Schanzer, Italy; Vittorio Rolandi Ricci, Italy; Senator Luigi Albertini, Italy. At the center table nearest to Hughes is seated Prof. G. J. Camerlynck, official interpreter. At the larger table back of him are the conference stenographers and at the table behind them is Dr. Garratt, secretary general.

For the benefit of the unfatigued, it should be stated that in police parlance the word "cleaned" is always associated with a "dip" or "pickpocket." If the dip merely "kicks the roll" or "gets the time," that is just plain "picking," but if he takes watch, money, stickpin and every other thing of value from the person of his victim, then the victim is "cleaned."

The officer in question, unfortunately for his own piece of mind, is believed by his fellow officers to have been harboring an idea that he is pretty clever in the matter of rounding up dips, and so one of the force decided to have a little sport.

Accordingly, on a recent occasion when the entire force was rounded up in Boston for a conference with Col. Alfred F. Foote, head of the department, this officer performed his little stunt and then suggested to Col. Foote that he make inquiry as to the time of day.

Unsuspectingly, the colonel said: "Who will give me the time?" Instantly every man dug for his watch, and all but one responded with a statement indicating the position of the hands of his watch. The single exception, however, shouted "My watch is gone." Hastily he searched in other pockets, only to find that every cent of his money, his railroad ticket (he is stationed outside of Boston), and practically everything else was gone. To use his own words, "They've left nothing but a handkerchief, and that is soiled."

While eyes were centered on the victim, Col. Foote was quietly informed of the true state of affairs also as to the hiding place which had been selected for the articles procured. Then he decided to have a little fun on his own account. "Look that door," he ordered; "we'll find out who did this thing. Begin there, and search every man."

The third man encountered was Walter Wedger, the state's expert on explosives, and the searches produced from his coat pockets one after another of the articles which had been lifted.

Wedger, of course, was entirely innocent, a fact which only added to his extreme mortification as well as to the pleasure of those who were in on the secret. At last accounts both officers were exerting every effort to learn the identity of the light-fingered officer who did the stunt, but it is a certainty that one member of the force will not be heard in future to make any brags about his ability to catch pickpockets.

Proposals For Legislation
Although the legislative session of 1922 is practically seven weeks away, proposals for legislation are already coming into the office of the clerks of the senate and house. In fact, Clerk Kimball of the house declares that never before have so many measures been filed at this time of year. This probably indicates an extended session.

Little of importance, however, has as yet been filed. An amusing bill made its appearance this week, coming from a Boston legislator of considerable experience. It provides that school committees in cities and towns shall be "authorized to request" school teachers to give their pupils instruction in "the principles and methods of safety first."

Every school committee member, and probably every school teacher, will probably give way to an "audible grin" when they read that "authorized to request." It is an entirely novel proposition in Massachusetts legislation. Frequently our statutes have contained such phrases as "directed to require," but there is nothing so extremely polite as the words of the new bill carries.

The idea emphasized in the bill, however, is good. It stipulates that children shall be instructed in the danger of jumping on and off street cars, automobiles and other vehicles, and in the importance of constantly being on the lookout to avoid danger while going to and from school buildings and when crossing streets.

ARMS CONFERENCE FILLED WASHINGTON WITH FOREIGN FACES

U. S. Delegation Has Power of Ambassadors—

Japs Predominate in Foreign Group—New

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—The conference for limitation of armament will not take on a political, or perhaps it would be better to say a partisan coloring. If the advisory council make up is any evidence of what will happen, it is as catholic in its personnel as could be possible, even in this country of varied political factions. Look over the list and you will find men and women representing every phase of political life in the United States. There are republicans and democrats of all shades; mugwumps, bull mooseers, reactionaries, theorists and utilitarians. No party or faction worth mention, or fit for the occasion has been overlooked by the president in selecting the corps of advisors.

And the best of it all is that most of them are optimistic over the outcome of the conference. Only a few outside pessimists have hung crepe on the door.

The selection of the Pan-American building for the conference, the holding of the first meeting in the Memorial Hall of the Department of the Interior, and the fact that next in line is that remarkable row of splendid structures, the great marble building of the American Red Cross, dedicated to the patriotic women of the United States, this makes the selection of site a notable incident. Every one of the three magnificent structures that mark that section of the city, are consecrated to noble purposes.

Pan-American Building

The Pan-American building, with its sunken garden, its fine outline and unrivaled interior beauty was erected to furnish a place where conferences between the great republics of the United States and those of South America could be held, and so harmony among them be fostered. The D. A. R. hall is one of the finest in Washington and commemorates peace after victory and the magnificent buildings of the American Red Cross, dedicated to the women of America, for the noble part they played in the Civil War, completes a memorial trio unsurpassed in the United States and is in itself an inspiration. But the great inspiration to the conference will unquestionably come from the people of the country. Not only of this country but of the other great nations that are impatient of wars and their consequences. When talking a few days ago with Congressman Rogers, a member of the foreign affairs committee, he said: "When one remembers that out of every dollar collected by the United States government, 52 cents of it goes to pay the cost of wars past or future, it is easy to see, that the economic side of the question will enter very largely into the negotiations, and make it easier for the United States to carry out its splendid program." Mr. Rogers added that he believes that program will be carried out. Of course there will be modifications and changes, that is to be expected, but the general belief is that the great purpose of the conference will be accomplished and a reduction in naval armaments will follow.

No Reduction of Armies

"Why can there be no talk on the possibility of a reduction in armies? Perhaps not to take effect just now, but some time in the not too distant future?" asked your correspondent of Congressman Temple. "It would be worse than useless," replied that foreign affairs committee man, "with the great turmoil now going on in Europe and the far east. I think very few people realize the extent of those wars across the sea that we refer to lightly as 'little wars.' Take for instance the trouble between Greece and Turkey. Greece, one of the small nations of the world, has today an aggressive force in Turkey of 120,000 men. That is a greater number of fighting men than either the Union or the Federal forces had at the battle of Gettysburg."

Yet we speak casually of it as a little war. Greece has kept on her own soil 20,000 more of a fighting force, making the total army of that very small nation only 10,000 less than the entire army of the United States. While those, and similar conditions exist in Europe there will be no attempt at a reduction of land forces, but I hope to see conditions change soon, and then, if the naval armament limitation succeeds, we shall next see the land forces reduced along the same line."

Advisory Council

Commenting on the advisory council, it is quite evident they will act as buffers between the general public and the four American delegates. The delegates must necessarily be somewhat secluded, indeed, cloistered, so far as communicating with the outer world on the matter of the conference is concerned. The advisory committee will be in close touch, both with the delegates and with the public. They will be in a position to bring the sentiment of the people close to the delegates, and bring it first hand. The four delegates have had the rank of ambassador conferred on them by the president. The believes that program will be carried out. Of course there will be modifications and changes, that is to be expected, but the general belief is that the great purpose of the conference will be accomplished and a reduction in naval armaments will follow.

Japs Predominate

"Even though the streets of Washington show faces from every foreign country, it is the Japs that predominate. Everywhere one sees the solemn, motionless little men from the far east. Quiet and stolid, they ride or walk through the great avenues, keenly observant of the American citizen, with whom they are now brought into close contact."

New England's Part

And in all the responsibilities and ceremonies of the great international conference it is again New England that plays a leading part. It is Senator Lodge, who is a leader in the big four American delegates; it is Senator Lodge, who as chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations and republic floor leader, who will assume control of the armament measure when it reaches the senate for endorsement; it is Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and Sen. Moses of New Hampshire, both of whom serve on that committee, who will exercise a strong influence when the conference report comes up in the senate for debate and action. It is Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, representing the 6th District of Massachusetts who is ranking member of the house committee on foreign affairs. New England men and women were selected by President Harding to serve on the advisory council, so New England will be in the front row in the limitation of armament ranks, and hold a prominent place in the subsequent adjustment of international affairs.

ACTIVITIES AT POLICE STATION

Sun Reporter Gathers Comparative Figures for This Year and Last

Steady Increase

How do the activities of the liquor squad this year compare with last year? Have more total arrests been made so far this year than in 1920? As a whole is the crime wave sweeping over Lowell at a swifter rate of speed in 1922 than in 1920?

These are only a few of the many questions often thought of by the average citizen who hasn't the time to delve deeply into matters of that sort. A reader of the daily papers pays considerable attention to a story of a criminal case in the local district court, is interested in its outcome, the persons involved, the crime charged and the testimony submitted, but he never obtains a definite idea of how many such cases are heard in a day, a month or a year, in a few words how real busy the local police officials and justices are kept enforcing the law and meting out justice to alleged offenders. How many poor unfortunates have been led into the cheerless cells in the Market street building so far this year? There have been exactly 3363 men, women and minors booked for various offenses here from January 1 to last October 31.

Through the courtesy of the police officials and particularly Deputy Chief Hugh Downey, who extended the police reporter of The Sun his unlimited assistance in the latter's hunt for records and data, it is possible to make public today a few facts and figures that will tend to give the public some knowledge of the general police activities in this city.

Undoubtedly when the year's total figures will have been compiled it will be found that the year 1921 saw approximately 500 more arrests in Lowell than the preceding year. In 1920 the number of persons taken in custody at the Market street "hotel" amounted to 3356, and it is safe to assume that by the end of December the figure 3363 of the ten complete months of the present year will be increased to about 4100.

For some unsuspected reason the month of August this year was the "high water" month in arrests, 437 being the 30 day total. With a mark of 493, October won the laurels last year. There have been more women-arrested in ten months in 1921 than there were in the whole twelve of 1920.

Out of the total of 3363 arrests, the figure of this year to November 21, 2697 are men, 185 women, and 481 minors.

The past year recorded 3656 arrests, thusly divided: Men, 2315; women, 159; minors, 182.

During the ten complete months of the instant year, 1494 drunken offenders, both men and women, were led to the lockup in the local station. In 1920 the number amounted to 1612. If the existing ratio is maintained for the remaining two months of the present year the total figure for 1921 will amount to about 1800, surpassing last year's figure by approximately 300. Can it be believed that drunkenness is on the increase?

What is perhaps most surprising is the noticeable monthly increase in drunks during the two years we are analyzing. February, 1920, saw the small number of 34 intoxicated persons. That figure is steadily increased until it is lifted at 185 in October of the same year. And so on it goes until it reaches the high-water mark of 216 in the month of August last.

Hand in hand with the misbehavior quoted above goes the offense that is believed to be the main wrong-doing throughout the nation today, the violation of the 18th amendment, the prohibition act. Efforts to combat this law breaking, to suppress the manufacture of the illegal liquor, are being made the country over. Figures will show that a similar campaign is being conducted right here in Lowell and, that in fact, the drive against hooch-making and selling is steadily increasing. Whereas, a total of 139 violators of the liquor laws were brought to face the court last year, the ten months of 1921 already greatly surpass that figure. Up to October 31 the joint efforts of the local and federal authorities had resulted in 204 arrests, the charges lodged against these offenders being unlawfully keeping with intent to sell and illegal selling of intoxicating liquor.

The activities of the liquor force were nearly at a standstill in January of 1920. Only two arrests for this offense were recorded that month. But the record steadily increased that remained on the rise throughout that year, was resumed in 1921 and is still soaring skyward. With 11 similar arrests in June, 1920, the records increased to 27 by December, arose slightly on an average through the succeeding months until finally, at the end of September, 1921, 35 liquor offenders brought to the bars. This is the largest number in 22 months. If the activities of the prohibition law enforcers are maintained at the same rate for the remaining period of the year it appears that the 1921 figures in arrests for liquor law violation will about double those of last year.

Which all goes to show that there is plenty doing within that grim appearing structure over Market street way.

WILL FIGHT NEARING SOLUTION

BY EDWARD THIERRY

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 19.—The fight over Mrs. Alice Griswold's will is nearing an end in the long court struggle with international complications to decide these questions. Whether the aged Mrs. Griswold was a mental wreck when she made her last will?

Why this will is to cut off Mrs. Griswold's daughter, Countess Anna St. Clair da Contubia, with $500 and leave the bulk of her estate to Mrs. Mary A. Drischman, wife of a retired Atlantic City butcher?

Why Mrs. Griswold gave Mrs. Drischman complete control of her estate for six years?

Countess da Contubia is making a last stand fight for her mother's estate.

Here's the story as it was unfolded by court testimony:

Mrs. Griswold made her first will, leaving the bulk of her estate to her daughter.

Cuts Off Countess

Then she made Mrs. Drischman manager of the estate, giving the latter a commission of 10 per cent. on all transactions.

Later she made a new will, cutting off the countess with $500 and giving her property all to Mrs. Drischman.

Physicians have testified Mrs. Griswold was unbalanced by alcohol and drugs when she made this will. Other or physicians equally competent, have testified she was not.

When Mrs. Drischman took control of the estate, its value was estimated at $327,786.

"I can't remember how much money I made," Mrs. Drischman said, "it was right smart money as I pulled off some smart deals for her."

Mrs. Griswold is said to have lavished gifts on Mrs. Drischman. One of these was an ornately furnished home. Mrs. Drischman later offered this home to President Harding for use as the summer White House.

Mrs. Griswold was 76 when she died. She had been married three times, once widowed, once divorced and separated from her last husband. She was a niece of Elbridge Gerry and related by marriage to the Vanderbilts. Her first husband was Melville Patterson of Baltimore, related directly to Betty Patterson, wife of Jerome Bonaparte, Napoleon's brother.

BLACK VELVET IS "SAFE"

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Black velvet is always the safe as well as the popular material which may be worn on almost any occasion from semi-formal dress.

The simple lined black velvet gown by Harry Collins, who created the inaugural wardrobe for Mrs. Harding, is attractive because the simplicity is the sort gained from pure artistry.

The draped skirt effect falls in a long point on one side and the only ornament, aside from the deep yoke of heavy lace, is a large brilliant buckle holding the drape over the left hip. Despite the fad for long and flowing sleeves this gown has short tight sleeves.

It is youthful and chic and avoids the extremes.

It is a discreet eight inches from the ground.

The small black hat has its note of elegance in the lovely sweep of the bird of paradise.

European universities, is being raised by American students.

The plan is being pushed by club women and women educators under the leadership of Mrs. Robert E. Spear, national president of the Y.W.C.A., Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, and Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Herbert Hoover, Woodrow Wilson, and president of many of the largest universities are members of the advisory board, of the "Student Friendship Fund."

"The situation is considered desperate among European college students, thousands of whom are without a place to live during the coming winter months," says Mrs. Spear.

The relief work is to be directed by the World's Student Christian Federation, which last year administered student relief in co-operation with the American relief administration. More than 15,000 women students in central Europe were given clothing and provided with a daily breakfast.

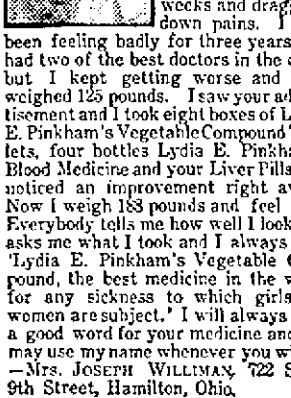

Of the campaign, Herbert Hoover said: "No greater service can be performed than to keep alive the institutions through which the real advancement and social recovery of Europe must arise."

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Be the Best Medicine for Girls and Women

Hamilton, Ohio.—"I had such awful pains in my back I could hardly stand on my feet and I was never without a headache. If I walked up town I thought I would drop and many a time I felt so bad I had to go to bed and I was not able to do much of my housework. I would have hemorrhages every two weeks and dragging down pains. I had been feeling badly for three years and had two of the best doctors in the city, but I kept getting worse and only weighed 125 pounds. I saw your advertisement and I took eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets, four bottles Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and your Liver Pills and noticed an improvement right away. Now I weigh 183 pounds and feel fine. Everybody tells me how well I look and asks me what I took and I always say, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the best medicine in the world for any sickness to which girls and women are subject.' I will always have a good word for your medicine and you may use my name whenever you wish."

TEMPERAMENT HATS BY MRS. HARDING'S DESIGNER

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Did you ever notice the effect on temperament of the colors you wear? The designers of clothes pay attention to it. For example, here are two hats designed by Harry Collins, Mrs. Harding's fifth avenue dressmaker, in which this effect is stressed. Collins says colors affect both wearer and beholder. The cheerful turban of violets is designed to chase the blues, while the glycerine ostrich with its gloomy, glinting appearance creates brilliancy.

CLOTHES! AN INTERVIEW WITH OUR MARY

BY MILTON BRONNER

PARIS, Nov. 19.—With the help of Doug, I've just interviewed Mary on clothes.

Doug? Fairbanks, of course. And Mary? Pickford, to be sure.

When I found them, in the royal suite at the Hotel Crillon here, Mary was wearing a becoming Paris creation of blue black silk velvet, trimmed with coral beads. A hat of the same material made an effective frame for her golden curls.

But, speaking of clothes—

"Here I am in the paradise of

shops and I haven't even bought as much as a handkerchief!" she said.

"(Na—ry)" interjected friend husband.

"Well, only the dress I bought today. You see, when we arrived I had nothing to wear suitable for the climate."

"I never know a woman who had anything to wear?" interrupted Doug.

"It's mighty nice to have so many people interested in a person because of one's success in her chosen art, but really I can't shop when half of Paris wants to go along and watch me do it. The result is that I have seen about ten thousand dollars worth of things I'd like, but only in the store windows as our auto went past."

"Glad the auto didn't stop," from Doug.

"I'd like to run around Paris alone," continued "Our Mary," "and find delightful bargains in frilly things and ducky blouses and other things that women like to shop for. And after I'd bought clothes, I'd like to browse around the jewelry shops in the Rue de la Paix."

"(Where you pay and pay and pay?" commented Doug.)

Mary quit then, and turned to a discussion of American women and others.

"There is little essential difference between the well-dressed women of New York, London and Paris," she said. "Each country has its own type of pretty women. Good clothes are perhaps more universal in America than in Europe, because here class lines are still maintained and it is mainly the wealthy who buy fine clothes. In America, you can't judge a woman's wealth by the clothes she wears. For they all love to dress and will make many sacrifices to gain the admiration of others on the street."

INTERVIEW WITHOUT WORDS WITH MADAME ORIKA KAMATSU

MADAME ORIKA KAMATSU

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—"Goo Morn-eeng."

It was such a light, thistle-down voice and such a dainty little lady, slim of waist, slim of ankle, small of feet. The latter, pink enough to have been rouged and dainty enough to have been manicured, were thrust bare, into tiny pink satin sandals.

"Eh—ah?" With a delicate rising inflection and a pretty smile, Madame Orika Kamatsu didn't understand English very well. She's the wife of the chief advisor with the Japanese delegation here.

We were helpless! But there is a language every woman understands—clothes. So Madame Kamatsu opened one of her huge trunks and began laying out her costumes.

"Eveneeng gown." Delicately. She held up a wonderful thing.

green, shimmering green silken crepe with a border of heavy pink roses and lined with padded white silk. The sleeves of the gorgeous garment must have reached to the very toes of the dainty little Madame Kamatsu.

"Ovi," she said and wound around her very slim waist a width of gold embroidered silk.

"Eveneeng gown." Again, and she laid out a handsome thing in black with a fastened lining of scarlet and a loose lining of white silk of gossamer softness. Flowers in lawenders and pinks bordered the gown, which was very long.

"Ovi." The sash was gold embroidered in blue and scarlet.

Madame Kamatsu's husband is a graduate of Harvard university and distinguished himself while there for his ability in public speaking.

ENTER—HIP TRIMMING

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—It is remarkable in a season when coats, capes as well as gowns accentuate the long line, how many of the suits defy woman's efforts to be svelte.

Hip trimming of heavy fur, fantasies of pleats and ornamentation drive the stout woman to desperation.

Fortunately some of the designers "have a heart" and create suits for all conditions of weight.

The deep banding of Kollinsky on the velveteen suit is not content with mere fullness. It is filled—and then some.

Indeed, the hips are accentuated by fan-shaped pieces of velveteen banded in the fur.

An attractive and novel collar of Kollinsky and velveteen gives the choker effect. The skirt is straight-lined.

A recent import I saw from Vienna is of cotton broadcloth banded with deep nautica bands over the hips and the choker collar. Paris shows the same line defiance so, of course, we are all in for it.

COOKING FOR TWO

Sister Mary Tells How to Make Puddings

To make a dessert small enough for two persons is quite a problem. Few desserts are good the second day and most are unfit to use. Choose small pudding dishes and pie pans. Include a small dozer heater with a small earthen bowl for beating egg yolks in your kitchen equipment. This heater and bowl will be indispensable for puddings of all kinds and very convenient for salad dressings.

Cocoonut Tapioca

One-third cup pearl tapioca, 1 egg, 1-1/2 cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons grated cocoonut (fresh or dried), 2 more tablespoons sugar.

Soak tapioca in milk over night, or if the pudding is wanted for dinner, put the tapioca to soak in the morning. Add sugar and yolk of egg well beaten with the salt. Add vanilla. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a slow oven about half an hour. Beat white of eggs till stiff and dry with a whisk. Add sugar and cocoonut and spread over pudding. Put in hot oven to brown the top. Serve warm.

Fig Pudding

Two tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup flour, 1-3 cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 pound figs, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Wash figs and cook until tender. This will take about 1 1/2 hours. Add the sugar when half done and have about 1/2 cup of juice with the figs when done. Drain from sirup and chop. Cream butter and sugar. Sift in a little flour. Add yolk of egg well beaten. Mix and sift flour and baking powder and add alternately to mixture with milk. Mix well and stir in chopped figs. Pour into a pudding dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Save the sirup from the figs and the white of the egg for the sauce.

Pudding Sauce

tablespoons butter, 1 egg white, 1/2 cup fig juice.

Cream butter and sift in sugar. Beat until creamy. When ready to serve add the juice of the figs (hot). Add the white of egg beaten till stiff and dry with a whisk. The egg must be beaten on a platter with a whisk or silver fork.

Cottage Pudding

One tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 egg, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-1/2 tablespoon salt.

Cream butter, add sugar and beat to a cream. Add yolk of egg well beaten. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately to first mixture with milk and vanilla. Turn into buttered and floured muffin pans and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve warm with maple sauce.

Maple Sauce

One-half cup of maple sirup, 1 egg white.

Beat white of egg till stiff in bowl with a dozer beater. Cook sirup until it forms a very soft ball when tried in cold water. Pour into the egg white slowly, beating well after each addition of sirup. Beat two or three minutes after all the sirup is in and pour over pudding.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

The details of the disarmament conference now in progress at Washington are being followed as part of the regular class work by the members of the American history and civics classes at the high school. Headmaster Henry H. Harris is doing this in accordance with a request from Payson Smith, the commissioner of education for Massachusetts. The disarmament proceedings are considered important enough to be made the subject of study in the schools and hence are being carefully gone over. The basis of class discussion in the high school are the weekly summaries being published by the Literary Digest. Provisions for the permanent preservation of the records of the disarmament conference in the school library are also being made. The request of Commissioner Smith was made after the recommendation of Governor Cox, that the conference be studied in the schools, was made.

ADMIRAL SIMS TALKS

Discusses "Military Conservatism" at Naval War College Graduation

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 19.—Rear Admiral William S. Extreme Nervousness

The steady use of a particular set of muscles tends to chronic fatigue, which produces faulty or difficult motion, trembling, cramps and even paralysis. Writers, telegraphers, tailors and seamstresses are among the classes most threatened in this way with the loss of their power to earn a living. The only safeguard is to keep up the supply of nerve force through the blood, which carries to the nerves the food that supports their strength. The nerve power may be recovered after it seems entirely lost, if the right means are taken. The first thing to do when threatened with nervous trouble is to stop the cause of it, if possible, whether it is irregular living, worry, or whatever it may be. Then the nerves must be given special nourishment and the blood must be kept pure and rich. This is the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and this is why the pills have been used with such great success in nervous troubles that did not yield to ordinary methods of treatment.

The free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," will interest you. Write for it today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 60 cents a box.—Adv.

"The rapid development of the submarine and the airplane during the war, and the continuous development of both, and especially the latter, since the war, have shown that these powerful weapons are still in their infancy; that great possibilities of development are clearly in sight; and that it will require the most careful, devoted, and logical consideration upon our part even to keep abreast of the developments in foreign navies, much less to anticipate these developments."

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Mary Pickford has been shopping over in Paris. Shown here are two of her purchases.

Of course, every woman of the youthful, ingenu type will immediately take notice.

Mary purchased a lot of gowns in Paris, but none of them is more girlishly chic than the rose taffeta for afternoon.

This simple bodice with the slightly low neck and with the merest suggestion of a tiny cap for a sleeve has a bouffant skirt with very full overskirt at the sides.

A big rosette with pendant ribbons, decorates the corsage.

Silken flowers decorate the ribbons and tiny wreaths of flowers strap the shoulders. This gown is of chiffon over tulle.

Both gowns are long.

A very successful whist and entertainment was conducted in St. Louis' parish hall in Beaulieu street last evening. The affair was given by the St. Louis branch of the St. Vincent de Paul society and was largely attended. In the early part of the evening whist was played and the winners were awarded suitable prizes. Later a varied entertainment program was given. At the close of the evening there were remarks by the pastor, Rev. J. R. LaBrosse and Dr. Rodrigue Mignault. The turkey drawing in connection with the affair was brought to a close and the lucky winner was Joseph Gendron of 33 Allen avenue. Another drawing contest was also brought to a close and the winner, Mrs. Hilda Benoit, was given a gold watch. The affair was in charge of a committee headed by Albin Branchaud.

TO HIS HONOR PERRY D. THOMPSON, MAYOR OF THE CITY OF LOWELL—

SIR:—On April 18th last, you granted an interview to a duly named representative of Local No. 2, International Leather Workers of America.

The purpose of the interview being to request permission to hold a Tag Day, so called, for the benefit of the strikers of Peabody, Mass., members of International Leather Workers of America.

At such interview you granted permission and suggested to us that when we had determined upon a date we should notify you and you would issue the permit.

At a later date we did, through our representative, inform you of the date and we were refused permission to hold a Tag Day on the grounds that there had developed opposition to it. Our representative asked for particulars as to what the opposition was and from what source it came, and he was abruptly interrupted by you and told to leave your office.

It now coming to our attention that you deny the above facts and being desirous, once and for all, to determine your position and your account of what did transpire, you are respectfully asked to answer the following specific questions:

Did you, Mr. Thompson, on April 18, 1921, assure or promise a representative of Local No. 2, International Leather Workers of America, that you would grant it permission to hold a Tag Day in Lowell, for the benefit of the striking brothers of Peabody, Mass., upon the date agreeable to the union?

Did you later, when the name representative called upon you for the purpose of informing you of the date agreed upon by the union and for the further purpose of obtaining a permit, say in effect, that opposition had arisen and that you could not grant the permit?

Did you any when questioned by a representative of the union to state what the opposition was, answer him by saying, "Did you come here to fight? If so, you may leave this office at once," and did you thereby terminate the interview?

Your answers to these questions and whatever explanation you may desire to offer are urgently requested.

We are,
Respectfully yours,
United Leather Workers, International Union of America, Local 2.

To the Voters of Lowell

The machine is on its last legs and fighting for its very existence. Here is the dying swan-song of the gang. They are around telling the voters that Sam Scott is a good fellow and has the ability to make a good Mayor; but you are wasting your vote. This is propaganda. I can assure you that there will be enough votes left to make Sam Scott Mayor of Lowell.

If you think that I have the ability to make a good Mayor, vote for me and have your friends do likewise.

The cry is now going out to the voters that Sam Scott must be headed off and defeated in the primaries for the nomination, because if nominated he cannot be beaten by all the propaganda and power of the gang.

The cry is now going out to the voters not to vote for Scott. Why? Because with all their power they cannot find the man that can get his promise to not bother the ring. If I am your choice for Mayor I give you, the voters, my word that I will step into the office of Mayor under a compliment to no one but the whole people of Lowell. I could get many votes if I would make them promises, but this I refuse to do.

If I had to go to City Hall tied hand and foot by different politicians to nominate them for this and that office, I can assure you that I would never have been a candidate. Easy money, easy chairs and easy living will not exist at City Hall if I am your choice.

I want your vote if these sentiments meet with your approval. I am a successful business man. I have tried all my life to do the right thing in all my dealings with the public. I have never been bulldozed or bought. I have made a success for myself and believe I could make the same success for you as Mayor.

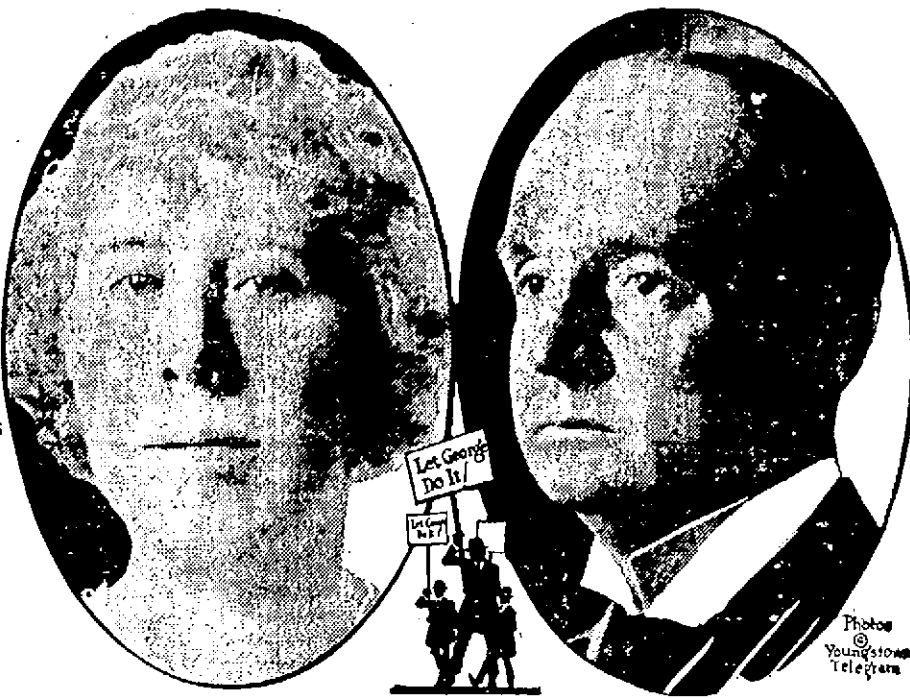

Having adopted a New Charter you should have a new man for Mayor.

GEORGE L. OLES, NEW MAYOR OF YOUNGSTOWN, O. AND HIS WIFE

By N.E.A. Service
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 13.—If you want to be anything or anybody, pick out a good wife. She'll help you more than anybody else.

That's the advice of George L. Oles, new mayor of Youngstown. He gives his wife credit for enabling him to rise from a huckster to a wealthy market owner, rated in Bradstreet's at $500,000.

Move to Youngstown in July and he elected mayor against strong opposition the following November.

Republican and democratic candidates already were in the mayoralty race here when Oles jumped in with both feet as an Independent. His platform was "Let George do it."

He advertised his candidacy by inserting lines in the advertisement of his market in the daily papers.

Bets on Himself
Nobody thought he'd win. So he bet on himself, offering big odds. And when the election results were announced, he found he'd cleaned up enough to pay the campaign expenses.

Policies of Oles' administration will be:

More policemen.
Snooping in parks under police protection.

Every mother an aid to the police.
Expulsion of crooks, gamblers and bootleggers and closing of club bars.

Oles will interpret this platform from time to time by insertions in his market advertisement. For instance:

"Patrolman Jones was seen drinking a scuttle of suds last night in a West Federal street cafe. Mayor Oles says this is the last chance for Jones as well as the cafe proprietor. Oles 10-cent loaf of hot bread, fresh every minute, biggest and best in the city."

Oles has been supporting 50 families, made destitute by depression in the local steel mills, for the last five months. And he didn't use that for campaign propaganda!

Now some of Oles' opponents are trying to oust him from office. He's promised to turn his salary back to the city for civic improvement. His opponents say that's technically a bribe.

us of all commitments affecting China meant a desire on her part to re-open what Japan considers as "closed incident" to which she has expressed firm opposition, was believed to be the special point of interest for Japan.

On the armament side of the negotiations, Japan's desire for an increase in the proportional strength of her navy although so far as known not yet formally presented to the special naval committee of the five powers, had become the dominant point today of informal discussion in conference circles.

With the American delegation adhering firmly to the principle upon which the naval ratio for Japan was arrived at in its proposal this promised to become the most tightly drawn issue of the conference.

GIL'S BUSTER KEATON OF GRIDIRON GAME
By N. E. A. Service
ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The coach who never smiles on the football field. That's Gil Dobie, lanky gridiron member of Cornell University, who has taken a squad of ordinary football material and made of it one of the greatest teams in the country.

It is no new thing, however, for Dobie to perform miracles. At University of Washington and at Annapolis he turned out winning eleven and surprised the world.

So serious is Dobie at all times that even his closest friends always think of him as "Gummy Gil." No one has seen him smile on the football field this season. It is not in the makeup of the Cornell coach.

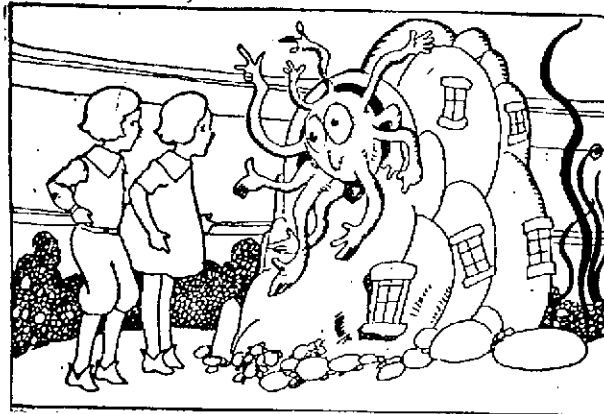

Even when his team defeated Dartmouth, 59 to 7, Gil did not smile. Nor did he crack the faintest part of a smile when his team humbled Columbia, 44 to 0, even though "Buck" O'Neill, former Syracuse coach and mentor at Columbia, has always ridiculed Dobie's style of coaching.

Dobie regards football as a serious business. That's why he does not smile. Dobie's slogan is "hold 'em, fight 'em and beat 'em, and don't depend upon anything but brains and determination when you're in a pinch."

Adventures of the Twins

A MYSTERY

"THROW IT AWAY," SAID MR. NAUTILUS, MYSTERIOUSLY

The queer looking creature that Nancy and Nick had discovered looked pretty sour when he heard that it was his house and not himself that Nancy admired.

"Humph," he grunted. "House? What kind of a house do you think I'd have it if I didn't build it? I'm the prize builder of the land of the Wilexians. I'm Mr. Nautilus."

"Oh, we've heard of you," said Nick. "Isn't there a poem about you?"

"I believe so," answered Mr. Nautilus, proudly.

"But why are you building?" asked Nancy, curiously. "Your house looks so lovely and smooth and perfect. Isn't it finished?"

"It's never finished," answered Mr. Nautilus. "Every little while I build a new room larger than the last one. And then I lock the door of the old room and live in the new room. My house is made up of locked rooms."

"Like Blue Beard's house," whispered Nick. "And do you hide the key?"

"Throw it away," said Mr. Nautilus, mysteriously. "What is gone is gone. What is closed is closed."

"But what do you keep in your locked rooms?" persisted the little girl. She was as curious as Blue Beard's last wife.

"It's a secret," whispered the nautilus, mysteriously.

Suddenly an idea occurred to both twins at the same instant. Could Mr. Nautilus be hiding wicked Mr. Hermit Crab? Was it possible?

The white pearly door into the old room was not quite shut. Why was Mr. Nautilus hurrying so to close it?

"Come, Nancy," whispered Nick. "Let's go in and find out what's there."

Before Mr. Nautilus could stop them, in they scampered, for, just as Cap'n Pennywhiskle had said, their green shoes could and did make them as little as pepper-corns.

MAY SELL OLD BUILDING

The sale at public auction within a short time of the old lighting station at the corner of Fletcher and Wilho streets has been announced. Commissioner Murphy states that he will make a motion to that effect at an early meeting of the council as the building is practically of no value to the city so far as its use is concerned, and the proceeds will be an addition to the general treasury fund. It seems likely that the municipal council will agree with the commissioner's view.

CADILLAC CAR IN FOUR PARADES

When Marshal Ferdinand Foch rode forth in parade Monday of last week and all Detroit paid homage to the supreme commander of the allies, no detail of comfort or sentiment had been omitted.

A Cadillac car bore the great marshal and was detailed to his use while in Detroit. The Cadillac car was chosen for many reasons, but mainly because of its remarkable record overseas during the world war.

It was adopted by the American government as the standard seven-passenger car, due largely to the outcome of a 2000-mile competitive test at Marfa, Tex. The United States Marine Corps followed the example of the army. Its standardization board adopting the Cadillac as the standard officers' car. Its great record overseas is now history. A total of 2095 cars were shipped overseas, 191 to various posts and camps in this country and 225 were delivered to the Canadian government.

The French highly prized their Cadillac cars, too, and early in the war the United States Motor Transport Corps sold 10 to the French general staff. It was frequently stated that, to be safe, officers and men always saluted every Cadillac car because so many high officers rode in Cadillacs.

Cadillac cars also carried Marshal Foch and suite on parade in Boston. Capt. Joseph A. Molloy of Lowell drove the Type 61 furnished by Geo. R. Dana.

BIG LIQUOR STOCK AT BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT POLICE STATION WIRE DESPATCHES

One look into a basement room of the police station where is stored the moonshine and paraphernalia seized by officers in this city will convince even the most skeptical that the local authorities are on the trail of booze runners and manufacturers. In a room set aside for this particular storage today one finds fully $10,000 worth of booze apparatus, all goods confiscated in raids effected by Sergt. Winn and his liquor squad and Federal Officer Sheldon within the past four months.

All the seized articles are turned over to the state authorities and next week Sergt. Winn will make his first consignment of the large haul now contained in the police "canteen" to Alfred R. Foote, state commissioner of public safety, who is in charge of the receiving of the liquor and implements for the commonwealth.

As the liquor sergeant opened the door of this "secret" room, at the reporters' request to see for themselves what had heretofore been described to them, a strong and earthy odor came from the room. Standing in the center of the room, one, without fear of making the slightest mistake, can recite "Booze to the front of me; booze to the rear of me; booze to the right of me; booze to the left of me; booze, booze, but booze, all around me." And besides, booze there is the most complete assortment of liquor manufacturing and distilling apparatus one can imagine.

Stills, of all shapes and capacities, barrels, small and large, jugs and bottles of all sizes and colors, containing, filters, measures, funnels and glasses are piled on high on all four sides of the room.

Advancing to a corner a drum filled with alcohol, valued at $1250, is discovered, while not far from it is a large quantity of moonshine, in gallon jugs and in bottles, worth several thousand dollars. At another end of the store room there is a high pile of cases of Jamaica ginger, the value of which the officers place at $2500. About 25 cases of beer, six barrels of so called "Greek" wine, and several boxes of "coloring fluid" complete the liquid assortment. But that is not all. Sacks of sugar, huge quantities of grain, molasses and molasses are included in the contents of the "canteen."

Several barroom counters, gas stoves, cash registers, pipes and other less important articles complete the huge array.

More than 150 stills have been taken by the liquor squad during the four months' period within which all this paraphernalia has been confiscated, the liquor officers state.

Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer Harold Wilson, during a recent visit to Lowell, was shown the booze haul in the liquor room and warmly complimented the police squad and Federal Officer Sheldon for their success.

DAUGHERTY DISCUSSES NEWBERRY DECISION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The supreme court decision in the Newberry case makes it unnecessary for candidates for the United States senate to file statements of receipts and expenditures in connection with either the primaries or elections, Attorney General Daugherty today informed Representative Luce, republican, Massachusetts, chairman of a house committee investigating a contested election case.

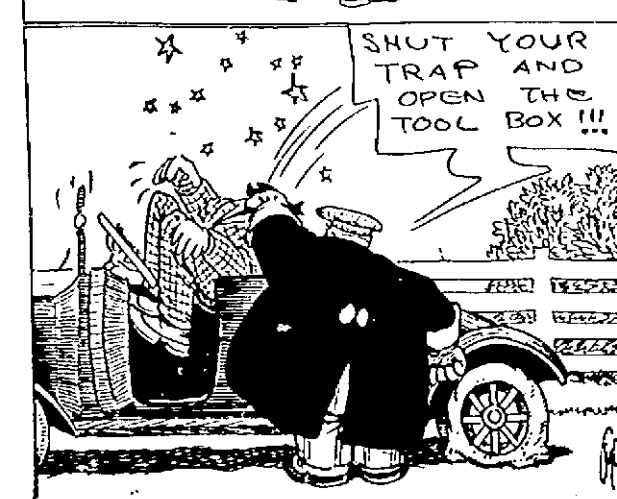

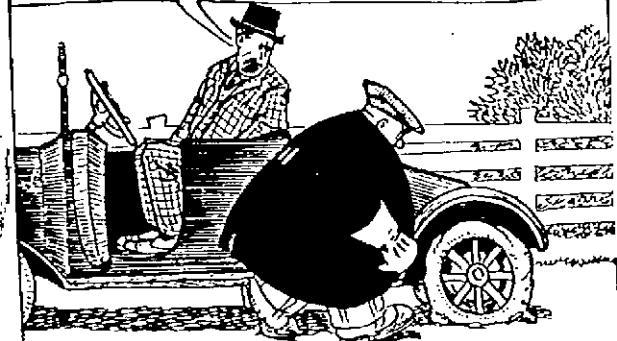

Mr. Daugherty, however, held that while candidates for the house of representatives could not be required under the corrupt practices act as interpreted by the court to report in detail the financing of their primary campaigns, they still are required to file statements in connection with the elections.

The attorney general said the Newberry decision could be construed as invalidating all of the provisions of the corrupt practice act relating to nominations for the office of senator or representative, whether by primaries nominating convention or by endorsement at special or general elections.

MODESTO, Cal., Nov. 18.—Rivalry between University of California and Stanford university, brought to annual pitch by the approach of their annual football game tomorrow, resulted in a clash of men and women alumni at a dinner of the two institutions here last night. CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 18.—The charge that Captain Herbert Gordon of the Cambridge police department, now under suspension, was instrumental in obtaining from Theresa Sears a release on any claims against men who took part in a midnight party at Mishawum Manor at Woburn, was dropped today. Counsel for the city announced at the hearing on Gordon's petition for reinstatement that they could not support the charge because Miss Sears could not be located.

Gordon was attached to the office of the district attorney for Middlesex county for duty and was suspended as a result of evidence upon which Nathan A. Tufts was removed as district attorney by the supreme court. It was testified at the Tufts trial that Gordon had insisted in obtaining the Sears release, one of several which figured in the work for which Attorney Daniel H. Coakley collected $85,000.

LIQUOR RAIDS

Odor Not Sufficient Excuse for Officers to Enter

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—An odor of liquor is not sufficient excuse for prohibition officers to enter a building without a warrant, United States Commissioner Wheeler ruled today. He discharged William J. Flower of New York, who was before him on a charge of illegally transporting liquor, when counsel argued that the only evidence which the prohibition agents had when they entered a Wakefield garage and seized 10 cases of whiskey in Flower's automobile, was that a police officer had smelled liquor. The commissioner held that the facts constituted illegal search and seizure.

DUFFY BROTHERS

HUNTERS ARE CHEERFUL PETRIE IS AFTER THEM

Good Bags of Game Reported
by Lowell and Chelmsford
Hunters

Lowell and Chelmsford hunters are the latest to report success on expeditions with gun and bag into the country districts. Today good bags of game were reported by Rousseau P. Haynes of Liberty street, Robert Webster of Olney street, and Wilder C. Reed of Chelmsford Centre. Earlier in the season Mr. Webster had great success in Nova Scotia.

The open season on upland game birds such as pheasant, grouse or partridge, woodcock and quail closes tonight at sunset after one of the best seasons recorded for many years. Lowell hunters report an excellent season all about the city, there having been numerous pheasants and woodcocks. Fish and game authorities account for this because of the late breeding seasons in the spring of 1920 and 1921, aided of course by federal regulations on migratory birds being strictly enforced by local officers.

The shooting of ducks and geese will be in order until January 1. Already the killing of both ducks and geese at many shooting stands at Duxbury and on the Cape is reported large for such warm weather. One stand reports the kill of geese during the week of Nov. 7 as an even 100. This figure is most unusual for the time of the year.

The officers of the Lowell Fish and Game association are to be the guests of the Junior Fish & Game club of Manchester, N. H., Wednesday evening, Nov. 23, the trip being made in autos. The Merrimack Valley now has three of the largest fish and game clubs to be found in New England, the Lowell club being the largest with about 200 members, the "Loose Pine" hunters' club of Nashua having 700 and the Manchester organization numbering 600.

Autoists Who Violate Traffic
Laws Are Going to Land
in Court

The streets of this city will be cleaned of automobile traffic law violators in the near future if Captain David Petrie, of the local police, makes good the threats he made last night. The captain bitterly arraigned three drivers whose cars had been tagged by Officer Clark on Central street and warned them that a second violation of the law will mean court prosecution.

Petrie, Superintendent Redmond Welch, when approached on the subject today, refused to be quoted, but stated that any action taken by Captain Petrie in dealing with traffic law violators would be approved by him. Asked point blank if he would allow court proceedings to be instigated against alleged traffic law violators, the chief replied that he certainly would.

Captain Petrie's warning to the three men followed information given by Officer Clark who told how the three autos had been left standing on the right side of Central street for more than two hours, causing general inconvenience to traffic and particular hazard to fire apparatus, which last night was compelled to pass through that thoroughfare twice on box calls.

As Central street is at present undergoing repairs additional blocking by "blind" autos is particularly cumbersome, the police point out. Last night as the fire department was making a hasty run to a blaze the truck and ladder was forced to swerve on that part of Central street now under repair owing to automobiles that blocked the right side of the thoroughfare.

In speeding along the wet cement one of the horses attached to the truck slipped and was nearly pitched headlong on the pavement.

Captain Petrie believes that the traffic laws should be strenuously enforced on that street.

Complete Revision of Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Completing their revision of the tax bill, house and senate conferees agreed today to a corporation income tax rate of 12½ per cent, the figure fixed in the original house measure. This is an increase of 2½ per cent over the present rate but is 2½ per cent less than the figure agreed upon by the senate. The conferees also agreed to the senate amendment repealing the $2000 normal exemption allowed corporations, except that this exemption would be continued in the case of corporations having net incomes of $25,000 a year or less.

Cold Wave on Way, Says Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Abnormally warm weather in the eastern portion of the country will be succeeded by a cold wave, the weather bureau predicted today. Low temperatures are due to reach the eastern coast Sunday. The lowest temperature reported today, was 26 degrees below zero at Havre, Mont.

FUNCHAL, Madeira, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary and his wife, Zita, arrived here this morning on board the British battle cruiser Cardiff, to begin their life of exile recently decreed by the allied council of ambassadors.

Would Bar Both Newberry and Ford

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A resolution which if adopted would seat neither Truman H. Newberry, republican, or Henry Ford, democrat, as senator from Michigan was introduced today by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, as the senate went into the fourth day of the consideration of the Michigan senatorial election contest.

In the evening the above named, together with the foremen and many of the employees and the Boston office staff were entertained in the "Crystal" room of Young's hotel, Boston, at a dinner. Lantern slides of Syracuse were shown and talks were given by Mr. Whitecomb, Mr. Dyer and Mr. Norton of Syracuse.

Lower Taxes, Employment, Law Enforcement

TODAY

STREET RAILWAYS

The Public Trustees of the "Old Bay State" asked to have the St. Railway Excise Tax suspended—granted—Lowell loses $15,000 each year. These trustees asked to have Lowell help to finance the road—granted. This year Lowell pays $4661.32. Now the trustees are asking Lowell to reduce the valuation of the property and lower the taxes of the company—All without even giving us a waiting station. Let's call a halt. Let's have a Waiting Station, a Little Better Service, and a few more men. We need them.

LABOR

"Contract Labor" is not the solution of the problem of better streets. Under the new charter the public service commission, with a feasible plan and sufficient appropriations, will give us better streets, built by LOWELL LABOR, under the direction of experienced public spirited appointees to that board.

Where were these other candidates on the question of "CONTRACT LABOR?" EVERYONE KNOWS WHERE O'SULLIVAN STOOD.

If the New Charter is made effective we will have better government. Wherever in the New Charter it recites the word Mayor, substitute the name O'SULLIVAN and you read an instrument that means BETTER GOVERNMENT.

FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING "TIPSY" AUTOISTS FINED

Fine of $200 in Liquor Case
—Two Manslaughter Cases
Continued

Joseph M. Bedard, of Alken street, appealed to a $200 fine imposed by Judge Fisher for illegal keeping of intoxicating liquor when sentenced in the district court today. Sergt. Winn testified to having seized more than 100 gallons of "hop" beer on the defendant's premises on Nov. 2, besides many empty jugs and bottles and a machine used to can bottles. An analysis of the beer by the state chemistry department showed the liquid to contain 4.37% alcohol, the police told the court.

Charges Continued

Charges of manslaughter against Bernard E. McDermott and James Cudworth were put over, the former to Dec. 10 and the latter to Dec. 3, owing to the fact that reports from inquests held in connection with fatal accidents the two defendants are said to have been involved in have not yet been completed, the court was advised.

A charge of assault and battery against Albert Shasheen was filed and Lucien Blanchette was given a ten days' suspended sentence to the house of correction for drunkenness. Several minor cases were continued.

TUBERCULOSIS LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Northern Middlesex Tuberculosis league, which was held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon, the following officers were elected: President, Dr. Arthur G. Lyon; vice president, Dr. Edward A. Adams of Littleton; secretary, Mrs. J. D. Lambert of Tyngsboro; treasurer, Mr. James Walsh of Lowell. And the three directors elected were: Mrs. Walter Perham of Chelmsford Centre, Mrs. Charles James of Bedford, Mrs. W. P. Hadley of Billerica, and Mrs. P. H. Roberts of Wilmington. There was a large delegation present from the county, representing local committee organizations from the towns of the county.

Mr. Robert V. Spencer, the state executive secretary, was present and presided at the meeting. Reports showed a larger interest in the sale which is the means of publicity for the league's work and the great amount of good work which is being done with the proceeds of the sale in child welfare, the health crusade, discovery of curable cases, malnutrition work among the children, and other lines of preventive and educational work.

The purpose of the county organization is for larger co-operation and the pooling of funds for a larger and more efficient service in the county.

ONE OF TWO STOLEN CARS RECOVERED

One of two automobiles reported stolen from Lowell streets last night was recovered today. At 9:30 o'clock last night Mrs. Sabine G. Callahan of Boston, road, North Billerica, missed her automobile, parked in Church street, where she had parked it. The loss was reported to the police and a wide search was started. Early this morning the Tewksbury police reported that the auto had been abandoned near Mud pond, Tewksbury. It was found by John P. Gale of that town. As far as could be learned the machine was not injured.

FORM LOWELL BAR ASSOCIATION

At a recent meeting of the local lawyers a permanent organization to be known as the Lowell Bar association was perfected and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Hon. John J. Pickman, president; Hon. James E. O'Donnell, vice-president; Joseph P. Donahue, secretary. The next meeting of the association will be held in the early part of January.

CAPT. KANE OF HARVARD

Thousands Jam Cambridge Stadium to Witness Annual Gridiron Battle Between Crimson and Blue

HARVARD STADIUM, Cambridge, Nov. 19.—The Yale and Harvard university football teams met here this afternoon in their annual football game. A capacity gathering of some 55,000 spectators thronged the huge horseshoe gridiron coliseum, and all temporary stands erected to accommodate the overflow. The game was played under a leaden gray sky, with a warm humid wind from the southwest quartering across the stadium. The playing field almost devoid of turf between the 25-yard line was soft and slippery from recent heavy rains.

The lineup:

Kane (Capt) lt
Hubbard lg
Clark c
Brown rg
Tierney rt
Crocker re
Buell rb
Owen lb
Fitts rlb
Coburn fb
Referee—R. W. Maxwell.

Yale Wins the Toss

Aldrich called the toss of the coin correctly and elected to defend the south goal with the wind at Yale's back. This forced Harvard to kick off and a minute before 2 o'clock Brown kicked off the ball striking the goal post being caught by Quarterback O'Hearn and bounded on the field again.

The Yale quarter ran the ball back 15 yards before he was stopped. Jordan smashed five yards off Harvard's left tackle, being stopped by Fitts of the secondary defense.

After a short gain by Aldrich, the Yale captain got off a booming punt which passed over the head of Buell, and rolled across Harvard's goal line. From its own 20-yard line, Harvard staged a line plunge by Owen from a forward pass formation. Guernsey stopped the Harvard man without gain and Fitts was repulsed on an end at guard. Fitts then punted to Aldrich. The kick was short and was caught by Aldrich on Harvard's 47-yard line, and the Ell leader ran to the Crimson 36-yard mark before he was spilled.

Aldrich Attempts to Field Goal
Aldrich made five yards in a dash inside of Macomber, aided by perfect interference.

Jordan was checked for a yard loss at the center of the Harvard line and Aldrich standing on Harvard's 47-yard line tried for a field goal. The ball swung to the left of the goal posts and was given to Harvard on her 20-yard line.

A delayed quarterback run by Buell from a pass formation was good for seven yards between Diller and Guernsey. Owen made it first down for Harvard with a plunge through center. On the next lineup Harvard fumbled. Fitts recovered the ball and attempting to gain it, patted it across the field. He was joined in the chase by several Yale players, all of whom got their hands on the ball but could not hold it. Finally Brown of Harvard falling on it.

Fitts then kicked to O'Hearn at mid-field, the latter running it back seven yards before he was checked. Aldrich fumbled the next pass, but picked it up again running across the field, being tackled by Tierney without gain. Jordan's 150 pounds of bone and muscle picked up a yard when he hurled himself into the Harvard line.

Owen Stopped Without Gain
Aldrich's punt with the wind at his back again crossed Harvard's goal line and Harvard resumed play on her 20-yard line. Into stepped Owen without gain. Crunkshank also stopped Coburn's rush.

Fitts punted to O'Hearn and the latter, after a five yard run, was upset on Harvard's 48-yard line. Jordan battered five yards out of Brown. Owen was knocked out in his attempted tackle of Jordan and Coburn finally stopped the Yale battering ram after a three yard gain.

Owen resumed after a moment's massaging and then Aldrich swept around Macomber and, aided by good interference and his own straight run, reached Harvard's 10 yard line where he was pulled down by Captain Kane.

Two drives at the Crimson line failed to gain, but on the third down, Captain Aldrich dodged his way through an opening at left guard for a five yard advance. Aldrich then kicked a field goal from Harvard's 15-yard line.

Score: Yale 3, Harvard 0.
In the face of the strong wind, Harvard elected to kick off again and Brown booted the ball to O'Hearn on Yale's goal line, and the latter twisted his way in a 30-yard run before Harvard could stop him. Jordan found an opening outside of Tierney for five yards and then Aldrich punted the ball falling on Harvard's 20-yard line and rolling across the goal line.

Clouds were breaking away and a bright sunshine flooded the stadium and Harvard put the ball in play on a 20-yard line. Owen made five yards inside of Sturm, and a second line from a concealed ball offense lined two yards.

Here the first period ended.
Score: Yale 3, Harvard 0.

SECOND PERIOD

When the teams reversed positions for the second period Harvard had a strong wind blowing at her back for the first time during the game. It was first down, and Fitts immediately punted the ball being caught by O'Hearn on Yale's 25-yard line. The latter started a rush up field and crashed into another Yale player, dropping the ball and Hubbard fell on it for Harvard on Yale's 26-yard line.

Coburn and Owen gained five yards in two drives at tackle, and a third plunge, Owen carrying the ball, gained two yards. Owen's attempted field goal was low and was caught by O'Hearn on Yale's goal line. The latter attempted to escape Coburn but was forced out of bounds on his two-yard line. From a position 10 yards back of his goal line Aldrich punted a fair catch on Yale's 21-yard line. With Buell holding the ball, Owen prepared for a field goal kick from placement.

Play Causes Mix-up
He failed, the wind sweeping the ball to the left of the goal bar. Macomber followed the ball over the Yale line and retrieved it, bringing about an unusual condition. The game was played while the four officials withdrew and conferred on the question of which team the ball should go to.

After considerable discussion the ball was brought out and given to Yale on her own 20-yard line. Aldrich's first charge outside of Kane made a first down for Yale on the latter's 21-yard line.

Hubbard tossed back Jordan without gain but the Yale plungers made one yard in a repetition of this play. Aldrich then punted out of bounds on Harvard's 37-yard line.

Owen Hits Line For Gains
Owen hit center for four yards, and then made first down on Harvard's 36-yard line around Ell's left wing. In a third charge, this time at Diller, he annexed another five yards. Jordan intercepted Buell's forward pass on Harvard's 48-yard line, the Yale full-back just beating Macomber in the leap for the ball, but was unable to run back, due to the immediate tackle by Harvard's left end.

Brown stopped Jordan after a two yard plunge, Aldrich then went down under four Harvard tacklers with a two yard loss. Jordan gained two yards through Hubbard, and then O'Hearn drop-kicked the ball striking on Harvard's goal line, directly under the bar. From his own 20-yard line Chapin gained four yards through Diller and here the second period ended.

Score, end period: Yale 3, Harvard 0.

As usual the Saturday preceding the municipal primaries brings the climax of the campaign, and so tonight the candidates for the leading offices who have been speaking at outdoor rallies, will make a whirlwind tour of the city. There is scarcely a square of any importance in the downtown district at which several speakers will not be heard tonight. The mayoralty candidates and some others have announced their speaking itinerary in newspaper advertisements and many of the councilor candidates follow these appointments and mount the platform in turn to address the various crowds after the mayoralty candidates depart.

On the mayoralty contest all kinds of predictions are heard, although two of the candidates are mentioned by the majority as the most probable winners. These predictions, however, are usually based upon the wishes of those who make them and are, therefore, unreliable, although disinterested parties can usually form a fairly accurate idea of the probable outcome, and can judge public sentiment sufficiently to predict with reasonable certainty who the winners will be. It is remarkable, however, that changes come suddenly on the eve of elections and that those who would win if the election were held today may lose ground before the actual date of the voting arrives.

One politician last night made the statement that he believed the vote of three of the candidates would run very close, and that possibly the fourth might be but a short distance behind the third. That statement was based on what he heard from the dopesters from various parts of the city and from a great number of distinct political elements. At first it was assumed that Dr. Mignault had entered the fight too late to make much impression, but that feeling has passed, and now it is the

Seven Persons Killed and Funeral Limousine Demolished on Crossing

Parts of Victims' Bodies and Fragments of Machine Found Mile Away

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Seven persons were instantly killed and a funeral limousine in which they were riding, was demolished when a fast Santa Fe train crashed into the machine as it was crossing the track between Summit and Lyons this morning.

Parts of the victims' bodies and fragments of the machine were strewn along the track for nearly a mile. The accident occurred at a bend in the road. It was thought the driver was unable to see the approaching train because of a driving snow storm.

One Report Says 11 Killed
While Santa Fe officials reported but seven dead, witnesses of the accident said they counted the bodies of 11 victims along the tracks. They said five men and a boy and girl, supposed to be about eight years old, were among the victims.

Not even the license plate could be found in the wreckage to identify the car. The largest piece of the wrecked automobile measured no more than four feet long.

Woman and Her Two Children Killed By Train At Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Nov. 19.—The bodies of Mrs. Henry Canse and her two children, one a girl of 12, and the other a boy of four, were found beside the Boston & Maine railroad tracks near the North Wilmington station today. They apparently had been struck by a train while walking through a deep cut with high ledges on either side during the thick fog.

Mrs. Canse and children had been spending a few days at their summer home in the Federal Gardens section and had started out to take an early train for Boston, according to neighbors.

Railroad officials said the three apparently were struck by a Portland bound express. The condition of the bodies indicated that they had been hurled against the rocky walls of the canyon. Twenty minutes after the express passed the bodies were discovered by Linwood Smith, station agent at North Wilmington.

The family is believed to reside in the Roxbury section of Boston and the Boston police were asked to locate the woman's husband. The girl's name was Laura. No one here knew the boy's name.

general belief that the doctor will get the bulk of the French vote and a fair sprinkling from other elements of the electorate.

One of the candidates is making bitter attacks upon Mayor Thompson and promising a revolution in city affairs if he should be nominated and elected. The mayor is defending his administration and promising faithful service to the people. A third candidate assails the mayor's administration at city hall, and lays down certain policies which he claims would bring about better conditions and a lower tax rate. Another candidate indulges in no personalities or criticisms of anybody, merely stating in his public speeches that he stands upon his record as a public servant, upon his fidelity to the people, and on this ground asks their support. Still another candidate has limited his canvass to appeals through public advertisements, pleading reform and a strictly business administration should be elected. The seventh candidate, who is also active and is making a vigorous campaign, promising reforms and criticizing the present administration.

It is worthy of note that at many of the rallies held during the present week, a fair proportion of the crowds was made up of women who seemed to take a keen interest in the remarks of the speakers.

EDWIN W. FIELD
Milwaukee, Wis.

"I'm convinced if I had taken Tanlac two years ago, when my troubles first began, I could have been saved a world of suffering," said Ed W. Field, 335 Jefferson street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"My case proved that when a man's stomach goes wrong, everything goes wrong with him. The first thing I noticed out of the way was loss of appetite and next, that no matter how sparingly I ate, I was sure to have an attack of indigestion. This was two years ago and from that time on until after I started on Tanlac, I kept going down hill at a steady rate. I finally got so I couldn't walk a couple of blocks without having to stop and rest, and I was so nervous that I often sat up in a chair all night long.

"Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's Drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative," by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; E. F. Fells, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass.; and the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

are also active in the campaign, some of them advertising through the press and also making speeches at outdoor rallies. This list is so large that it is absolutely futile for a newspaper to offer any counsel to voters beyond that of asking them to use their best judgment in selecting the men who are most likely to give the city honest and efficient service. In the list of candidates for the office of councilor at large, there are about twenty men who are fully competent to fill the office with credit to themselves and the city and it remains for the voters to select from these the twelve to be nominated next Tuesday and go before the voters at the final election.

The School Board
The fight for school board has attracted but little attention, although it is understood that several of the candidates are making an active campaign throughout the city. Some of the men have addressed outdoor rallies, and a few of them have automobiles with big banners announcing their candidacy. The candidacy of seven women for positions on the school board has enlisted the attention of the voters and several of these candidates have appeared in outdoor rallies. Some of the least desirable candidates are making the most urgent appeals. It is of the utmost importance that the electorate shall send no unfit candidate to the school board.

On account of the large number of candidates on the ballot, it is to be regretted that the polls cannot be opened before noon for the reason that the charter provides that, at the primary election, the polls shall be open at noon and close at six o'clock in the evening. It is further stated that if a number of voters are in line at nine o'clock when the polling booths close, they must be allowed to cast their ballots, even after that hour. This, however, is a legal point which the election commission will have to decide.

There is some criticism of the form in which the ballot has been turned out, based especially on the fact that part of the list of candidates for councilor at large is in a separate column without any heading to indicate that it is a continuation of the preceding column. The candidates whose names are in this part of the list, however, will affect them injuriously, but it appears now to be too late to have the ballot changed.

Vote Early
Let it be understood that it is of the utmost importance that as many as possible shall vote before 5 o'clock on Tuesday, so as to leave the way clear for those who are employed in the stores and factories during the day. The voting booths are too small to accommodate a large crowd and hence the necessity of having as many as possible vote before 5 o'clock when the factories close and thereby prevent crowding.

Another New Problem
The election commission and others interested in the municipal elections are confronted with a new problem. The new charter provides that at all primaries candidates for office must draw for positions on the ballot, but nothing is said relative to the procedure at the final election.

The commission is inclined to favor another drawing, in which the fifty nominees will again contest for positions. They will decide the matter at an early date. On the other hand, the argument is advanced that the names should be printed on the final election ballot in the same order in which they were drawn in the first place. No doubt the commission will hear the opinions of most of the candidates on this question during the next few days.

Would-be registrants still continue to appear at the election commission's office seeking to get their names on the voting lists for next Tuesday. They cannot be accommodated, however, since the lists have already gone to the printer. One woman called up this morning and made inquiries relative to registration and it developed that she had been told by someone that she could vote next Tuesday and register later since her other qualifications were O.K. The impression was immediately corrected.

All the candidates have denied the letter's authorship in one way or another.

The commission has made all provisions for the primary, and all the necessary printing is already completed or will be completed in ample time.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

The action of tort of $2000 brought by John A. Mr. Dabek sued to recover damages to his land caused by water from the Beaver brook as a result of the wash-

The members of the choir of the First Congregational church held a get-together meeting with their pastor, Rev. Percy E. Thomas, in the vestry of the edifice last evening. In charge of the supper were Mrs. Frank Lawrence, chairman; Mrs. Charles Bigbee, Mrs. Arville Robinson, Miss Edna Hanson and Miss Harriet Duchan.

LOWELL HOME FOR CHILDREN

Miss O'Leary Plans Big Time for Children on Thanksgiving Day

The Lowell Children's Home in the heart of the city, founded by Miss Ellen O'Leary, familiarly known to children old and young as "Auntie" Ellen, is to celebrate its 20th birthday on January 1, 1922. Great plans are being made for the celebration. There will be "open house" all the week beginning on New Year's day, and old friends and many new ones will be there to help "Auntie" with the celebration.

The founder of this home for little children has given more than 10 years of her life to the work in Lowell. Many of the homeless tots cared for during the past two decades in the home maintained by Miss O'Leary with the help of charitable persons, have been taken from most unfortunate surroundings and later sent out into the world again splendidly equipped with all the necessary resources that have brought happiness and success into their lives. Plenty of testimony has come to the headquarters of the Children's Home in after years giving "Auntie" O'Leary entire credit for wonderful aid given to little children, who were helped to lay the solid foundations of their success by this woman who tells you that she "loves children."

But before the plans for the anniversary celebration are completed, there is something else that the founder and matron of this home is preparing to do. Very modestly and without going into the whole story, "Auntie" O'Leary told The Sun yesterday that she is planning to give the boys and girls at the home one of the finest Thanksgiving feasts and entertainments ever known at the institution in Hosford square. There are now about 20 boys and girls cared for here, and just look at what "Auntie" is going to give them when they are called into the big dining room Thanksgiving day about 10.05 p. m. Real Thanksgiving turkeys, brown and juicy, with tiny little cloves all stuck around the breast bones and little sprigs of green leaves putting a neat finish on the "meat mountain"; white and sweet potatoes, mashed; onions, squash, mince pie, cranberry sauce, English pudding, dates, apples, and—candy!

That is going to be "Auntie" O'Leary dish for the little folks next Thursday. And there are going to be a lot of people there besides—no curious folks, but real folks with real hearts and real smiles and real stories and a lot of real things. And in the big hall, Goblins were hiding night, when the games will last until after 9 o'clock—well, don't blame "Auntie" nor the folks who are going there to take part in the big fun. Folks always stay up late Thanksgiving night, you know, and this is to be a real celebration this year.

Halloween night, the boys and girls couldn't sleep at all, they had so much fun around the home grounds and in the big hall. Goblins were hiding under the big staircase, and even "Auntie" O'Leary had to drive out some of the broomstick wanderers, who had no business in that House of Delight. And Dreamland simply was off the map that evening, with every train bound that way stalled on some happy track by the wayside. But Thanksgiving night is to be even better than that, so the children told a Sun man yesterday.

And Christmas too, is coming not so many weeks away, and that is about the best time of the year, isn't it? "Auntie" agrees that if Christmas didn't come once in a while, she would hardly have the heart to keep on her fight to bring cheer and love to homeless children.

The work at the Children's Home is supported by public charity and by small weekly amounts paid for the board and care of some of the children. These strenuous times are a great tax upon the resources of the home. In the new location, however, the children have room for healthful exercise. The work has grown and still grows with the growth of the city.

There is a constant need of money, fuel and provisions, such as food and clothing and similar supplies. All contributions are very gratefully received by the matron and promptly acknowledged. It is hoped that those who would like to aid the institution during the Thanksgiving and Christmas season, give what they can to aid the work.

Joseph W. Griffin is president of the home. Edward W. Trull treasurer, and Miss O'Leary matron. Visitors are always cordially welcome.

The home was formerly located at 60 Kirk street, in a place known as "the Dr. Savory house." It has been for the past five years located in Hosford square in a building on what was the "Samuel Wood estate." Many improvements had to be made before the building inspectors of city and state would allow it to be used as a children's institution, but now everything is in ship-shape. Improvements are constantly being made inside the building as funds permit, but charity is not always regular in serving the needs of the deserving, and some work necessary during the past few months has not been done. It is hoped by the matron that friends will visit the home more frequently, study the work that is being done and take more interest in its success.

Friends of the Children's Home are invited to the Thanksgiving day celebration and also the Christmas tree festivities, and "Auntie" O'Leary promises to open the door and show everybody just where Jimmy, Josie, Helena and Patsie are going to sit, right near the head table, so they won't miss anything. And there is going to be singing and "eats" and speech-making (limited to one and one-half minutes per speaker), and they whisper behind the curtains over in the corner that no one else will hear, that a man from city hall is going to drive up around 3 or 3 o'clock in his big car and hop right in and say how-do-you-do-folks to every little man and woman around that big dinner table.

THE RED CROSS FUNDS CAMPAIGN

The Red Cross campaign for funds in Lowell is not coming up to the expectations of Chairman George R. Chandler. While a fair number of subscriptions has come in, the list is not so large as the campaigners hoped it would be. Chandler announced today that all who have sent their dollars to Red Cross headquarters at 81 Merrimack street or to one of the sub-stations in the stores downtown, do so at once. The present drive ends on Thanksgiving day.

Subscriptions may now be left at the Adams Hardware store on Middlesex street, Macartney's clothing store, and all the National banks in Lowell.

Attention Mr. Voter!

Tremendous power for good or evil is vested in the hands of the Mayor under the New Charter.

Honesty and Integrity are absolutely necessary in a Public Officer with such power.

What Candidate for Mayor outstandingly represents Honesty and Integrity in Public Office?

Who makes no promises but to do his full duty by all the people?

WHO?

READ THE ANSWER MONDAY

HUGH DOHERTY,
21 Penn Ave.

Pre-Eminently Qualified For the Office

THE SELECTION OF A MAYOR this year calls for pretty sound reasoning. The increased responsibilities of the office make the issue plain and unmistakable—It is Qualification and Ability—and not partisanship or anything else that must count. On that issue Perry D. Thompson stands pre-eminent among his opponents.

HIS BROAD AND LIBERAL interpretation of the duties of Mayor has won for him the admiration and respect of all classes of citizens who are fair and reasonable in their conclusions.

A MAYOR NOT REMOVED from the people, but near to them,—and their public servant in the full sense of the word.

SENSATIONALISM without merit and over-indulgence in vitriolic expression are not his arguments for office. Promises impossible of fulfillment and negative public service do not constitute his claims for preferment.

A SOUND, CONSERVATIVE supervision of public expenditures; selection of qualified men for public office; initiative and enterprise in the discharge of public duty; a willingness to serve all the people, day or night, public or private, and a Mayor who will creditably represent our city upon any occasion ARE THE QUALIFICATIONS OF MAYOR THOMPSON FOR OFFICE.

HE DOES NOT HAVE TO PROMISE THIS; HIS PUBLIC SERVICE HAS ALREADY PROVED IT.

You serve your own best interest and that of your city, when you vote for Perry D. Thompson. THIS IS NO IDLE STATEMENT, BUT THE PLAIN, WHOLESOME TRUTH. THEN, WHY NOT VOTE FOR HIM?

Signed, MRS. WALTER L. PARKER, 270 Wilder Street.

Man Who Fired on Lifeboats Breaks Jail

HAMBURG, Nov. 19.—Former Lieut. Commander Johann Bolot, who, with Lieut. Dittmar was convicted of manslaughter for firing on the lifeboats of the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle after the vessel had been torpedoed in the summer of 1918, has escaped from prison here. Bolot was found guilty by the supreme court at Leipzig in July, and sentenced to four years' imprisonment. The charge against him and Dittmar originally was first degree murder, but was changed on the ground that the officers "acted on the impulse of the moment." Commander Patzig of the submarine which torpedoed the Llandovery Castle, fled the country to escape trial.

Deny Charge Against Sec. of Labor Davis

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—Denial of the charge credited to Secretary of Labor Davis that the price of eggs and turkeys was mounting and that storage warehouse interests were responsible, was made here last night by Frank A. Horn of New York, president of the American Association of Refrigeration. There are few turkeys in storage at the present time, he said, and the prices quoted are for fresh fowl.

Ulster Parliament Called to Meet Nov. 29

BELFAST, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Both houses of the Ulster parliament have been called by their respective speakers to meet Nov. 29. When parliament adjourned Oct. 4 until Dec. 31 it was announced by Sir James Craig, the premier, that arrangements had been made to summon it to meet at an earlier date in case of emergency.

Disguised as Letter Carrier, Steals $3000

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—An adroit thief, wearing the uniform of the postal service, obtained a package of money containing several thousand dollars from a letter carrier here yesterday and is still at large. The man, bearing what was thought to be proper credentials, approached the letter carrier near a postal terminal station, presented an order supposed to have been signed by John Drew, chief of the letter carriers, and directed the carrier to hand over the parcel. He told the carrier that Mr. Drew thought it best to make special delivery of the package rather than have the carrier take the risk of carrying it about on his rounds. It was handed over without question. The package contained, according to the estimates of postoffice officials, about $3000.

Lumber Dealers Extend Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—American producers of hardwood timber and lumber have an excellent opportunity now to extend their foreign sales, the commerce department stated today. The most promising fields, it was said, were in such countries as Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Mexico and British South Africa. The department asserted oak has been growing in popularity in South American countries which together with other North American hard woods could be still further popularized by judicious exploitation.

BUT HE GOT THE PICTURE

"No wonder Foch won the war," says Bob Dorman, our New York photographer. "His judgment is perfect." Western legionnaires presented Foch with a wildcat which Foch appraised and promptly placed in the New York zoo for safekeeping. Bob went up to take the wildcat's picture. To do this successfully it was necessary to enter the wildcat's cage. A brave keeper went in to help. The wildcat resented the intrusion at the expense of Bob's trousers. (Bob was retreating at the time!) The keeper grabbed the animal and got a split nose for his courage. Both men were painfully scratched.

Robbers Take Jewels Worth $100,000

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 19.—Three robbers who entered the Gittleston Jewelry Co., store some time during the night, overpowered Harry Weisman, manager, upon his arrival today, forced him to open the safe door, and shut off the burglar alarm, and escaped with jewels valued at $100,000.

RECEPTION AND DANCE AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Members of the faculty and a large number of students and friends were in attendance at the Normal school last night when the students gave their first reception and dance of the winter season. The social committee of the school and society league, Mrs. Ruth Walker of Lowell, chairman, was in charge. Dancing was featured from 7 until 11 o'clock.

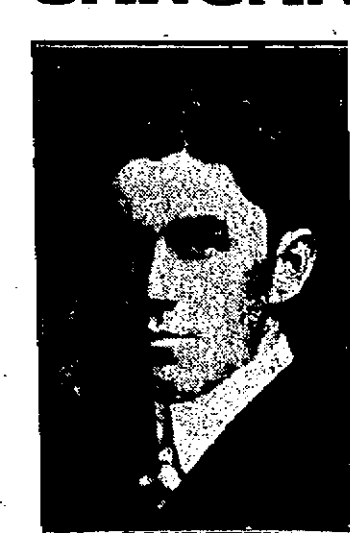

The decoration of the hall was capably handled by a committee headed by Miss Louise O'Brien of Somerville, and Miss Viola Marsh of Cambridge supervised the musical arrangements. The committee on refreshments, Miss Marietta O'Donnell of Lowell, chairman, the committee on printing, Miss Ruth McDonald of Alhston, chairman, and the committee on invitations, Miss Daisy Precious of Westford, chairman, contributed in great measure to the affair's success. The reception and dance were chaperoned by the following: Mrs. Clarence M. Weed, Miss Frances Clark and Miss Helen Hogan.

No Space Is Wasted in This
Two-Story, Six-Room House

It is easy to heat this model home, and their treatment; by the arrangement of the rooms themselves. Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Ia., experts in interior and exterior woodwork.

The English type of architecture is finding a constantly increasing popularity in this country. That fact is not hard to understand when we recall that it is the most domestic of all domestic types, and that the Americans are a home-loving people. Steep roofs to shed rain and snow, and many casements courting sunshine bespeak the English love of the great outdoors. Yet the English interior is reflected in English architecture by the design of the exterior doors; by the location of the porches.

the other upon a stair hall. The hall is shielded from drafts and intrusion by a vestibule, so essential in a well planned home.

There are French doors between dining room and porch, and pairs of casements at the side and rear.

Kitchen Is Roomy
In the kitchen there is space for range, refrigerator, built-in cupboard, sink with two drainboards, and a built-in ironing board.

Another sink and many convenient cupboards make the pantry a kitchenette in itself. Between kitchen and dining room, it keeps noises and odors of the kitchen out of the dining room.

The three bedrooms upstairs fairly revel in closet space. There are large ones and small, tray cases, linen closet, and a built-in dressing table. Light and ventilation they have in goodly measure, too. The sleeping porch adds materially to the housing capacity of this home.

A large, well ventilated attic not only provides storage space, but means cooler rooms in summer and a more easily heated house in winter.

OLDEST HUNTER HEARS CALL OF THE WILD

"This letter makes me sick with envy," said Charles A. Lirette of 817 Merrimack street, veteran Canadian hunter and trapper, to a Sun man this morning, as he flashed an envelope, which contained a few lines written by his son, Charles, Jr., a former resident of this city, who is now a resident of Boneyville, Alberta, Canada, and who is in Alberta's boundless forests trapping game of all descriptions. Of course, there is a reason for the aged gentleman to feel bad over the reception of such a letter, for he spent the greater part of his life in the wilderness and wore it out for the members of his family, he would today be enjoying his favorite sport.

Mr. Lirette was asked that inasmuch as he is a citizen of the United States, why he did not take out a hunting license and try his luck in this part of the country. His reply was: "I am not accustomed to spend days in the woods and return with a squirrel or perhaps a rabbit of a couple of muskrats. I have been hunting and trapping since I was 15 years of age, and my ambitions have always been for big game, and I would find no pleasure in trapping the woods from morning until night for the sake of bagging the small, insignificant animals."

Mr. Lirette's last hunting trip in the Canadian wilderness was about seven years ago or during the winter prior to the United States entering the war. On that trip he was accompanied by his son, Charles Jr., who is now having a great time on the hunting grounds with one of his sons, Arthur, aged 15 years. The Lowell man left this city in August, went directly to the home of his son at Boneyville, Alberta, and shortly afterwards the pair entered the woods and during their long stay in the wilderness they figured they covered over 200 miles. The pair of trappers on that excursion captured six live foxes, but they were able to keep but four, which they sold to fox raisers for $700. The catch of their last trip was valued at about $1300.

The trappers disposed of their catch in Canada, and among the furs they sold were those of 75 fox, 60 minks, 10 lynx, 1 otter and several small furs as well as that of a wolf which they received $5, while the government paid them $10 for the wolf's head, a prize which is an every odd caught in any part of the dominion.

Mr. Lirette said the best time to enter the Canadian wilderness is in October, for the trappers have to tramp for about two months before they strike real game. The temperature in the woods during the winter,

Plenty of Turkey In Cold Storage

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—More than five times as much turkey is in cold storage warehouses in this state this year as during the pre-Thanksgiving period a year ago, according to Hermann C. Lythgoe, director of the food and drug division of the state department of health. Statistics which he made public today showed 176,424 pounds of poultry in storage on Nov. 1, as compared with 29,304 pounds in 1920.

he said, is between 30 and 60 below zero, but one who is accustomed to it does not mind the cold.

Mr. Lirette, Jr., according to his letter, has not yet reached the hunting grounds, although he has been walking for the past two months. The letter received in this city was carried to the nearest village by trappers, who were returning to their homes. Game in the Canadian woods is plentiful this year and Mr. Lirette expects his present trip will be a banner one. He is now on the tracks of beavers, which seem to be plentiful and he also reports numerous fox tracks on the snow. According to his letter, he and his son are enjoying the best of health and both are having a great time.

The Lowell Mr. Lirette stated this morning that in the spring as soon as his son and grandson return from the wilderness, he will take a trip up north and if their catch is as good as anticipated, he said he will spend the summer at the home of his son so as to be in readiness to go on his last trapping trip next fall. "If I remain here," he concluded, "my wife and children will not let me go, so I will take no chances in coming back. I want to go on another trip before I die." Mr. Lirette is pursuing his 75th birthday.

SANTY STILL KEEPS HIS PROMISE

A little tot dreamed that Santa Claus promised her that he would keep a doll hospital in her city all the year round where she would be able to take her doll any time it did not feel well or was just right and have it returned as good as new in a very short time. The dream has been realized and Santa Claus has kept his promise for this is the third season of the Robert's doll hospital at 226 Merrimack. Old City Hall building, where in the past hundreds of the little tots of Lowell have been made happy by having their sick dolls returned to them as good as new. Mr. Roberts says his hospital is better equipped this season than ever to handle all doll emergency calls. Dolls can be made to order, or new heads, bodies, hands, arms, feet, legs or eyes can be furnished.

Final Clash of Seasonal Football War of the "Big Three" at Cambridge Today

The boxing fans of the city are elated over the continued success of Billy Murphy, the "Axe" youth who added the veteran Kid Thomas to his list of victims the other night. Many feared that Thomas would be a "hard nut" for Murphy to crack, but he proved his easiest opponent since entering the ring. Thomas was completely outclassed from the start, as Murphy's long right held him off and the local lad was able to employ his famous left advantageously. To date Murphy has yet to meet defeat and his supporters now feel content that he is capable of holding his own with any boy of his weight.

Manager Dodge is busy on plans for his holiday card. He has arranged two round numbers and one six and expects to sign up the participants in his other preliminary some time today.

Barney Burke and Mike Castle, who fought a slashing ten round bout here a short time ago, with Castle being awarded the decision, have been re-engaged. If their coming set to is anything like the previous mill it will be well worth seeing. Castle got an early lead on Burke in the former meeting scoring a knockdown at the outset, but Burke fought a great uphill battle and many felt that he had the better of the going. The judges and referee ruled otherwise, but a second meeting, Burke says, will give him an opportunity to show that he is Castle's master.

Steve Gustin who made a great hit here a year ago, will make his first appearance of the season at the club's Young Jack Sharkey of New Bedford in the second ten round event. Sharkey who was defeated by Mickey Travers, the sensational featherweight, feels that he can do better against Gustin and his sliverly has impressed the local promoter sufficiently to give him another chance.

Sam Longford is signed for a bout at Phoenix Nov. 22.

Chick Hayes of the Salem club has matched Eddie Flynn and Joe Larne for the semi-final bout at the club's show Monday night. Billy Woods and Tommy McFarland box in the feature number.

Marty Killilea, manager of Johnny Wilson, states that Wilson is not matched to fight Young Fitzsimmons of Oklahoma in New Orleans. Marty says he never had any negotiations for such a bout.

Charley Moran, Umpire, Tobacco Grower, Football Coach, Cobbler and Tailor

MORAN DOES THE COBBLING FOR THE BOYS AT CENTRE

BY BILLY EVANS

(Copyright, 1921, Lowell Sun.) Coach Charley Moran of Centre college, is a busy individual. In the summer he acts as an umpire in the National league. The umpire job lasts only six months, but it usually provides enough action for most of the arbiters for the entire year.

Charley Moran is the exception. He goes from baseball to football, with a bit of cobblering in the tobacco industry on the side. The section of Kentucky from which he hails produces some of the finest tobacco in the United States. As a coach, Moran is perhaps the busiest member of football in the business.

Last year, after the close of the American league season, I was on my way to Erie, Pa., to umpire a ball game that had all the natives of that section of the country on edge. On the train I met a former Harvard football star, just returning from Danville, Ky., where Centre college is located. He had been down scouting the Centre team for about ten days. As Moran is a warm personal friend of mine, I asked about him, and the chances of his team to beat Harvard.

"I met Moran in a peculiar way," said the former Harvard man, after telling me that Moran was a trainer and a number of masseurs to look after the physical condition of the team. A cobbler to take care of the football shoes, and a tailor to look after the suits, jerseys, pads and the like.

"When I arrived at Centre college, as is now customary in the scouting game, I started to look up the head coach to introduce myself, and announce my mission. Going into the gymnasium, I asked one of the students where I would find Coach Moran. He told me in a small room at the end of the hall. Arriving there, I noticed a man nailing cleats on some football shoes, and looking for all the world like a cobbler. I asked him where I would find Coach Moran.

"Talking to him," he said without even stopping his work for an instant. It took me about a minute to recover, get my bearings and find my speech.

Finally I made myself known. Moran greeted me cordially, apologized for his cobbler attire, and explained how different things were at Centre than at Harvard. Incidentally, he asked my further indulgence while he repaired a couple of uniforms.

There was the head coach, a jack of all trades. That was over a year ago. Things are different at Centre now. Moran has put Centre on the football map. Centre's share of the Harvard game will probably add enough to the treasury so that the college can afford a cobbler to look after the football shoes, and a tailor to mend the uniforms.

Horemans To Play Willie Hoppe

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Edouard Horemans of Belgium, who for two years has been seeking a chance to meet Willie Hoppe, the champion, this afternoon will realize the opportunity. The champion of Europe and the world's champion are scheduled to meet in a match in the world's 18.2 ball-line billiard titular tournament. Horemans has lost three of four starts. Hoppe has the only clean slate among the seven entrants, having won all three starts. Welker Cochran will meet Jake Schaefer, Jr., today. Cochran yesterday broke the world's high run record when he scored 384. The previous record was 305 by Hoppe.

American Fencers Get the Jump

POLO NOTES

Lowell plays at Providence tonight.

Worcester will be here on Monday night, Salem comes on Thursday afternoon and Providence will be the locals' opponents on Friday night.

Referee Devron handled the game in expert fashion. He's a very capable official.

Barney Doherty, who was expected to play with Lawrence, did not show up. He's on his way, however, according to the Lawrence management.

Bob Hart will go to Fall River and not to Woonsocket as previously stated. Red Williams will stay with Woonsocket.

LOWELL BOY COLBY CAPTAIN

William J. Brown '23 at a meeting of the letter men of the Colby college football team yesterday was elected captain for the next year. Brown has played in the team at left guard for the past two years and is one of the strongest linemen ever to wear the Colby colors. Bill is a Lowell boy and was one of the guards on the star high school eleven of 1915 and 1916.

He attracted a lot of attention by his fine work on these eleven and after finishing the course at high school to Lawrence academy in Groton, Bill along with Arthur Lynch of this city were the mainstays of the team of that school. When the United States entered the war, Bill enlisted in the navy and did his bit. After leaving the navy he entered Colby and went out for football. He did not reach his regular form his first year and did not make the team. His second year, however, was a different story and he bore out the predictions that Jim Conway, his coach at high school, had made for him. Last year and this season he was one of the star guards of the team. Stating long ago that he was one of this fact; that the honor of captain was conferred upon him. The Lowell football fans will watch Bill's work next year with interest and will be with him in his efforts to lead a winning team. Bill is the second Lowell boy to receive his captaincy at Colby. While Bill was one of the mainstays of the 1915 high school eleven, Eddie Cawley, the present high school coach, was the captain and star of the Colby team. If Bill is as successful with his play as Eddie was with his, he can well be satisfied. Brown is a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity, one of the most popular men in the college.

Lawrence Turned Back, 6 to 2—Lowell's Ninth Victory in Last Eleven Games

The Lowell polo team made it nine victories out of its last eleven games by handing a defeat to the Lawrence club at the Crescent rink last night by the score of 6 to 2.

Three weeks ago Lowell made a clean sweep of its four games, the following week, it won two and lost two, and of the three games played this week, all have been recorded in the win column for Lowell.

In that period the team has tackled about all the other clubs in the league, but Salem and New Bedford were the only ones to triumph over the Quillets.

Last night's game found Lowell continuing where it left off at Portland the night before. While Lawrence got the first goal of the game, Lowell quickly took it up, and from that point on the locals had the advantage.

Lowell's team play was impressive, with Davies, Alexander and Quigley as busy as bees in the offensive operations, and Morrison and Blount, defending up to the mark in the defensive for Lawrence Lovegreen was the star. His fine obstruction work kept Lowell's score down considerably.

Paddy Foley, playing his last game as a member of the Lawrence team, was in luck all night. He worked strenuously and went after Davies and Alexander at every opportunity.

Twice during the game Paddy met with injuries. Once a ball struck him in the jaw, and later he was struck over the eye by Alexander's stick. But he continued in the game.

Harkins and Griffith worked at top speed all the way for the visitors and George Hart kept busy but all to no avail. Lowell, however, got two "gift goals," one by Accident and the other as a result of a foul in goal.

The accidental goal came when Davies, in a scrumming in front of Lovegreen, kicked the "pill" into his own cage, the other resulted when Griffith was hit by the ball while in the circle with Lovegreen. The line-up:

LOWELL

Alexander, 1; Davies, 2; G. Hart, 1; Quigley, 1; Morrison, 1; Blount, 1; Foley, 1; totals, 8 (first period).

THANKSGIVING IN YE OLDEN TIME

Observance of the Day as
100 Years Ago

Day Was Not Always Observed on Last Thursday
in November

Saturday Letter by The Sun's
State House Correspondent
is Interesting

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Those who look upon Thanksgiving Day as an opportunity for sports, or for other pleasures or recreation, should give thanks next Thursday that they are living in the present generation and were not among those who, one hundred years ago, observed the day as proclaimed by John Brooks, the then governor of Massachusetts.

Governor Brooks, in the closing paragraph of his proclamation, directed his fellow citizens to "abstain from all labor and recreation inconsistent with the religious services of the day."

That ancient proclamation gives proof of the fact that Thanksgiving day has not always been observed on the last Thursday of November. In 1821, Governor Brooks decided the sixth day of December would be a fitting occasion, and in order that none of his fellow citizens might not have timely notice of his selection, he issued his proclamation on the 12th day of October.

Only a few years earlier it had been the custom to observe the day immediately after the close of the harvest season, during the late October and early November days, so it is now established that the date has covered a range of at least six or seven weeks on the calendar.

That proclamation of one hundred years ago is also interesting in that practically its every line bespeaks the desire of the author that a proper offering of thanks be given to the Great Ruler of the Universe for His blessings. Except for the last paragraph, which has been quoted above, it reads:

"The increasing exercise of the benevolence of Almighty God towards His rational creatures, of which the people of this state so largely participate, ought to produce in us the most cordial returns of gratitude as well as a suitable sense of our dependence on Him for all the enjoyments of this and the hopes of a better life. The uncommon blessings which the present season has brought with it have corresponding claims on us for expressions of devout praise and thanksgiving.

"I have, therefore, thought fit to appoint, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, in conformity to the pious practice of our revered forefathers, I do hereby appoint Thursday, the sixth day of December next, to be observed as a day of thanksgiving, and prayer throughout the commonwealth. And the people of every religious denomination are requested to assemble in their respective places of public worship on that day, unitedly to offer to the Divine Benefactor of all our blessings, the humble sacrifice of thanksgiving and praise: That He hath in the course of the present year, preserved among the people of this state an unusual degree of health, of tranquillity and good fellowship; That our moral, religious and social enjoyments and our civil and political privileges have been continued to us; That our nation, now on terms of amity with all other nations, is fast recovering from the paralyzing effects of war; That our agriculture, manufactures and commerce, are in a state of progressive hopeful improvement; That the seasons of the year have been ordered in much mercy, so that our fields have yielded a rich increase and we have an abundant supply of the fruits of the earth and the productions of the sea.

"And while we render to God our grateful tribute of praise for the various blessings which He has been pleased freely to indulge us, may we be led duly to realize our own unworthiness, and the great abuse with which we are chargeable, of many of the distinguishing tokens of His goodness, and penitently seek to Him for the remission of all our transgressions 'through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus.' That He will be pleased to bless the people of the commonwealth in their government, in their schools and colleges, in their literary, moral and religious instruction, and in all their institutions for promoting piety, charity and benevolence, and that finally the religion of the gospel of Jesus Christ may be universally spread through the world, that the whole earth may be filled with the Glory of God."

ARMAMENT CONFERENCE IN ACTION!

THIS gives a complete view of the disarmament conference in session at Washington. Cameras are barred from the conference room, but in this sketch that Artist E. R. Higgins of the N. E. A. Service staff made from the gallery, there is all the exactness and detail that would be shown in a photograph. Reading around the horseshoe table from left to right, the delegates are: Viscount D'Alto of Portugal, Dr. V. Wellington Koo, China; S. K. Alfred Sze, China; Chung Hui Wang, China; Baron Kijuro Shidehara, Japan, Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, Japan; Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, Japan; Jules Jusserand, France; Albert Sarraut, France; Rena Viviani, France; Aristide Briand, France; Oscar Underwood, United States; Henry Cabot Lodge, United States; Elihu Root, United States; Charles Evans Hughes, United States, chairman, standing; Arthur J. Balfour, Great Britain; Lord Lee of Fareham, Great Britain; Sir Auckland Geddes, Great Britain; Sir Robert Borden, Great Britain; George F. Pearce, Great Britain; Sir J. W. Salmond, Great Britain; V. S. Srinivasa Sastri, Great Britain; Senator Carlo Schanzer, Italy; Vittorio Rolandi Ricci, Italy; Senator Luigi Albertini, Italy. At the center table nearest to Hughes is seated Prof. G. J. Camerlynck, official interpreter. At the larger table back of him are the conference stenographers and at the table behind them is Dr. Garritt, secretary general.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, it should be stated that in police parlance the word "cleaned" is always associated with a "dip" or "pickpocket." If the dip merely "lifts the roll," or "gets the time," that is just plain "picking," but if he takes watch, money, stickpin and every other thing of value from the person of his victim, then the victim is "cleaned."

The officer in question, unfortunately for his own peace of mind, is believed by his fellow officers to have been harboring an idea that he is pretty clever in the matter of rounding up dips, and so one of the force decided to have a little sport.

Accordingly, on a recent occasion when the two forces were rounded up in Boston for a conference with Col. Alfred F. Foote, head of the department, this officer performed his little stunt and then suggested to Col. Foote that he make inquiry as to the time of day.

Unsuspectingly, the colonel said: "Who will give me the time?" Instantly every man dug for his watch, and all but one responded with a statement indicating the position of the hands of his watch. The single exception, however, shouted "My watch is gone." Hastily he searched in other pockets, only to find that every cent of his money, his railroad ticket (he is stationed outside of Boston), and practically everything else was gone. To use his own words: "They've left nothing but a handkerchief, and that is soiled."

While eyes were centered on the victim, Col. Foote was quietly informed of the true state of affairs, also as to the hiding place which had been selected for the articles procured. Then he decided to have a little fun on his own account. "Look that door!" he ordered. "We'll find out who did this thing. Begin there, and search every man."

The third man encountered was Walter Wedger, the state's expert on explosives, and the searches produced from his coat pockets one after another of the articles which had been lifted.

Wedger, of course, was entirely innocent, a fact which only added to his extreme mortification as well as to the pleasure of those who were in on the secret. At last accounts both officers were exerting every effort to learn the identity of the light-fingered officer who did the stunt, but it is a certainty that one member of the force will not be heard in future to make any brass about his ability to catch pickpockets.

Proposals for Legislation

Although the legislative session of 1922 is practically seven weeks away, proposals for legislation are already coming into the office of the clerks of the senate and house. In fact, Clerk Kimball of the house declares that never before have so many measures been filed at this time of year. This probably indicates an extended session.

Little of importance, however, has as yet been filed. An amusing bill made its appearance this week, coming from a Boston legislator of considerable experience. It provides that school committees in cities and towns shall be "authorized to request" school teachers to give their pupils instruction in "the principles and methods of safety first."

Every school committee member, and probably every school teacher, will probably give way to an "audible grin" when they read that "authorized to request" is an entirely novel proposition in Massachusetts legislation. Frequently our statutes have contained such phrases as "directed to require," but there is nothing so extremely polite as the words the new bill carries.

The idea emphasized in the bill, however, is good. It stipulates that children shall be instructed in the danger of jumping on and off street cars, automobiles and other vehicles, and in the importance of constantly being on the lookout to avoid danger while going to and from school buildings and when crossing streets.

ARMS CONFERENCE FILLED WASHINGTON WITH FOREIGN FACES

U. S. Delegation Has Power of Ambassadors---
Japs Predominate in Foreign Group---New

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—The conference for limitation of armament will not take on a political, or perhaps it would be better to say a partisan coloring, if the advisory council make up its mind of what will happen. It is as catholic in its personnel as could be possible, even in this country of varied political factions. Look over the list and you will find men and women representing every phase of political life in the United States. There are republicans and democrats of all shades; muckrakers, bull moosers, reactionaries, theorists and utilitarians. No party or faction worth mention, or fit for the occasion has been overlooked by the president in selecting the corps of advisors.

And the best of it all is that most of them are optimistic over the outcome of the conference. Only a few outside pessimists have hung round the door.

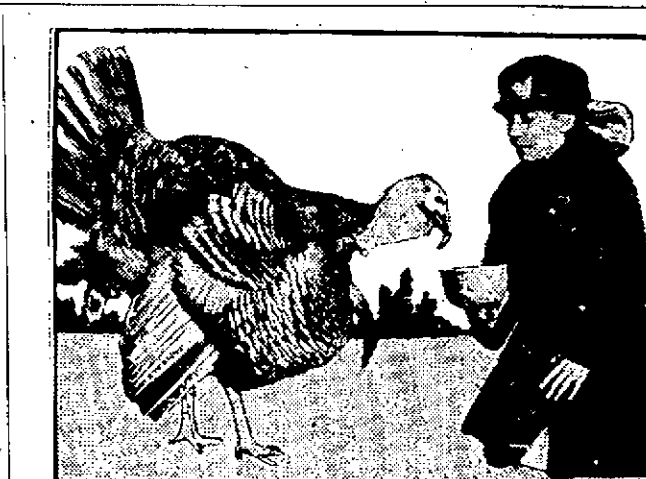

The selection of the Pan-American building for the conference, the holding of the first meeting in the Memorial affairs committee, he said: "When one talks of the daughters of the American Revolution, and the fact that next in line in that remarkable row of splendor is the great marble building of the American Red Cross, dedicated to the patriotic women of the United States, this makes the selection of site a notable incident. Every United States to carry out its splendid one of the three magnificent structures program." Mr. Rogers added that he

that mark that section of the city, are consecrated to noble purposes.

Pan-American Building

The Pan-American building, with its sunken garden, its fine outline and unrivaled interior beauty was erected to furnish a place where conferences between the great republics of the United States and those of South America could be held, and so harmony among them be fostered. The D. A. R. hall is one of the finest in Washington and commemorates peace after victory in the first days of American independence; and the magnificent building of the American Red Cross, dedicated to the women of America, for the noble part they played in the Civil war, complete for a memorial trio unsurpassed in the United States and is in itself an inspiration. But the great inspiration to the conference will unquestionably come from the people of the country. Not only of this country but of other great nations that are impatient of wars and their consequences. When talking a few days ago with Congressman Rogers, a member of the foreign affairs committee, he said: "When one remembers that out of every dollar collected by the United States government $2 cents of it goes to pay the cost of the armament race, it is easy to see that the economic side of the question will enter very largely into the negotiations, and make it easier for the United States to carry out its splendid program." Mr. Rogers added that he believes that program will be carried out. Of course there will be modifications and changes, that is to be expected, but the general belief is that the great purpose of the conference will be accomplished and a reduction in naval armaments will follow.

No Reduction of Armies

"Why can there be no talk on the possibility of a reduction in armies? Perhaps not to take effect just now, but some time in the not too distant future?" asked your correspondent of Congressman Temple. "It would be worse than useless," replied that foreign affairs committee member, "with the great turmoil now going on in Europe and the far east. I think very few people realize the extent of these wars across the sea that we refer to lightly as 'little wars.' Take for instance the trouble between Greece and Turkey. Greece, one of the small nations of the world, has today an aggressive force in Turkey of 120,000 men. That is a great number of fighting men than either the Union or the Federal forces had at the battle of Gettysburg.

Yet we speak casually of it as a little war. Greece has kept on her own soil 30,000 more of a fighting force, making the total army of that very small nation only 10,000 less than the entire army of the United States. While those, and similar conditions exist in Europe there will be no attempt at a reduction of land forces, but I hope to see conditions change soon, and then, if the naval armament limitation succeeds, we shall next see the land forces reduced along the same line."

Advisory Council

Commenting on the advisory council, it is quite evident they will act as buffers between the general public and the four American delegates. The delegates must necessarily be somewhat secluded, indeed cloistered; so far as communicating with the outer world on the matter of the conference is concerned. The advisory committee will be in close touch, both with the delegates and with the public. They will be in a position to feel the sentiment of the people close to the delegates, and bring it first hand. The four delegates have had the rank of ambassador conferred on them by the president. The advisory council could not have that rank, but they have been specially commissioned by the president to assist and advise, so they are truly an advisory council with suitable rank and credentials.

Japs Predominate

Even though the streets of Washington show faces from every foreign country, it is the Japs that predominate. Everywhere one sees the solemn faced, noiseless little men from the far east. Quiet and stolid, they ride or walk through the great avenues, keenly observant of the American citizen with whom they are now brought into close contact.

New England's Part

And in all the responsibilities and ceremonies of the great international conference it is again New England that plays a leading part. It is Senator Lodge, who is a leader in the big four American delegates; it is Senator Lodge, who as chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations and republican floor leader, who will assume control of the armament measure when it reaches the senate for endorsement. It is Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and Sen. Moses of New Hampshire, both of whom serve on that committee, who will exercise a strong influence when the conference report comes up in the senate for debate and action; it is Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, representing the 6th District of Massachusetts who is ranking member of the house committee on foreign affairs. New England men and women were selected by President Harding to serve on the advisory council, so New England will be in the front row in the limitation of armament ranks, and hold a prominent place in the subsequent adjustment of international affairs.

ACTIVITIES AT POLICE STATION

Sun Reporter Gathers Comparative Figures for This Year and Last

Steady Increase

How do the activities of the liquor squad this year compare with last year? Have more total arrests been made so far this year than in 1920? As a whole is the crime wave sweeping over Lowell at a swifter rate of speed in 1922 than in 1920?

These are only a few of the many questions often thought of by the average citizen who hasn't the time to delve deeply into matters of that sort. A reader of the daily papers pays considerable attention to a story of a criminal case in the local district court, is interested in its outcome, the persons involved, the crime charged and the testimony submitted, but he never obtains a definite idea of how many such cases are heard in a day, a month or a year, in a few words how real busy the local police officials and justices are kept enforcing the law and meting out justice to alleged offenders.

How many poor unfortunates have been led into the cheerless cells in the Market street building so far this year? There have been exactly 3353 men, women and minors booked for various offenses here from January 1 to last October 31.

Through the courtesy of the police officials, and particularly Deputy Chief Hugh Downey, who extended the police reporter of The Sun his unlimited assistance in the latter's hunt for records and data, it is possible to make public today a few facts and figures that will tend to give the public some knowledge of the general police activities in this city.

Undoubtedly when the year's total figures will have been compiled it will be found that the year 1921 saw approximately 500 more arrests in Lowell than the preceding year. In 1920 the number of persons taken in custody at the Market street "hotel" amounted to 3556, and it is safe to assume that by the end of December the figure 3353 of the ten complete months of the present year will be increased to about 4100.

For some unsuspected reason the month of August this year was the "high water" month in arrests, 437 being the 30 day total. With a mark of 493, October won the laurels last year.

There have been more women arrested in ten months in 1921 than there were in the same period of 1920. Out of the total of 3353 arrests, the figure of this year to November 21, 2697 are men, 185 women, and 451 minors.

The past year recorded 3556 arrests, thusly divided: Men, 2916; women, 180; minors, 461.

During the ten complete months of the instant year, 1394 drunken offenders, both men and women, were led to the lockup in the local station. In 1920 the number amounted to 1512. If the existing ratio is maintained for the remaining two months of the present year the total figure for 1921 will surely amount to about 1800, surpassing last year's figure by approximately 300. Can it be believed that drunkenness is on the increase?

What is perhaps most surprising is the noticeable monthly increase in drunks during the two years we are analyzing. February, 1920, saw the small number of 34 intoxicated persons. That figure is steadily increased until it is listed at 185 in October of the same year. And so on it goes until it reaches the high-water mark of 216 in the month of August last.

Hand in hand with the misbehavior quoted above goes the offense that is believed to be the main wrong-doing throughout the nation today, the violation of the 18th amendment, the prohibition act. Efforts to combat this law breaking, to suppress the manufacture of the illegal liquor, are being made by the courts and the police. Figures will show that a similar campaign is being conducted right here in Lowell and, that in fact, the drive against hooch-making and selling is steadily increasing. Whereas, a total of 133 violators of the liquor laws was brought to face the court last year, the ten months of 1921 already greatly surpass that figure. Up to October 21 the joint efforts of the local and federal authorities had resulted in 204 arrests, the charges lodged against these offenders being unlawful keeping, with intent to sell and illegal selling of intoxicating liquor.

And the same truth that exists in the increase by month during the two years among drunks is also applicable to the activities of the liquor forces were nearly at a standstill in January of 1920. Only two arrests for this offense were recorded that month.

But the succeeding months saw a rapid and steady increase that culminated in the rise throughout the year, was resumed in 1921 and is still yearling skyward. With 11 similar arrests in June, 1920, the records increased to 27 by December, arose slightly on an average through the succeeding months until finally the end of September, 1921, saw 35 liquor offenders brought to the bars. This is the largest number in 22 months. If the activities of the prohibition law enforcers are maintained at the same rate for the remaining period of the year it appears that the 1921 figures in arrests for liquor law violation will about double those of last year.

Which all goes to show that there is plenty doing within that grim appearing structure over Market street way.

BY EDWARD THIERRY

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 19.—The fight over Mrs. Alice Griswold's will is nearing an end in the long court struggle with international complications to decide these questions: Whether the aged Mrs. Griswold was a mental wreck when she made her last will? Why this will is to cut off Mrs. Griswold's daughter, Countess Anna St. Clair da Contubia, with $500 and leave the bulk of her estate to Mrs. Mary A. Drischman, wife of a retired Atlantic City butcher? Why Mrs. Griswold gave Mrs. Drischman complete control of her estate for six years? Countess da Contubia is making a last stand fight for her mother's estate. Here's the story as it was unfolded by court testimony: Mrs. Griswold made her first will, leaving the bulk of her estate to her countess daughter.

Cuts Of Countess

Then she made Mrs. Drischman manager of the estate, giving the latter a commission of 10 per cent. on all transactions. Later she made a new will, cutting off the countess with $500 and giving her property all to Mrs. Drischman. Physicians have testified Mrs. Griswold was unbalanced by alcohol and drugs when she made this will. Other physicians equally competent, have testified she was not. When Mrs. Drischman took control of the estate, its value was estimated at $327,756.

"I can't remember how much money I made," Mrs. Drischman said. "It was right smart money as I pulled off some smart deals for her."

Mrs. Griswold is said to have lavished gifts on Mrs. Drischman. One of these was an ornately furnished home. Mrs. Drischman later offered this home to President Harding, for use as the summer White House.

BLACK VELVET IS "SAFE"

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Black velvet is always the safe as well as the popular material which may be worn on almost any occasion from semi to full dress.

The simple lined black velvet gown by Harry Collins, who created the inaugural wardrobe for Mrs. Harding, is attractive because the simplicity is the sort gained from pure artistry. The draped skirt effect falls in a long point on one side and the only ornament, aside from the deep yoke of heavy lace, is a large brilliant buckle holding the drape over the left hip. Despite the fact for long and flowing sleeves this gown has short tight sleeves. It is youthful and chic and avoids the extremes. It is a discreet eight inches from the ground. The small black hat has its note of elegance in the lovely sweep of the bird of paradise.

Hamilton, Ohio.—"I had such awful pains in my back I could hardly stand on my feet and I was never without a headache. If I walked up town I felt so bad I had to go to bed and I was not able to do much of my housework. I would have hemorrhages every two weeks and dragging down pains. I had been feeling badly for three years and had two of the best doctors in the city, but I kept getting worse and only weighed 125 pounds. I saw your advertisement and I took eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and your Liver Pills and noticed an improvement right away. Now I weigh 138 pounds and feel fine. TEMPERAMENT HATS BY MRS. HARDING'S DESIGNER

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Did you ever notice the effect on temperament of the colors you wear? The designers of clothes pay attention to it. For example, here are two hats designed by Harry Collins, Mrs. Harding's Fifth Avenue dressmaker, in which this effect is stressed. Collins says colors affect both wearer and beholder. The cheerful turban of violets is designed to chase the blues, while the glycerine uestrich with its gloomy, glinting appearance creates brilliancy.

CLOTHES! AN INTERVIEW WITH OUR MARY

BY MILTON BRONNER

PARIS, Nov. 19.—With the help of Doug, I've just interviewed Mary on clothes.

Doug? Fairbanks, of course. And Mary? Pickford, to be sure.

When I found them, in the royal suite at the Hotel Crillon here, Mary was wearing a becoming Paris creation of blue black silk velvet, trimmed with coral beads. A hat of the same material made an effective frame for her golden curls.

But, speaking of clothes—

"Here I am in the paradise of clothes! I haven't even bought as much as a handkerchief!" she said.

"(Ma-ry?) Interjected friend husband."

"Well, only the dress I bought today. You see, when we arrived I had nothing to wear suitable for the climate."

"(Ma-ry?) Interjected friend husband."

"I never know a woman who had anything to wear?" Interrupted Doug.

"It's mighty nice to have so many people interested in a person because of one's success in her chosen art, but really I can't shop when half of Paris wants to go along and watch me do it. The result is that I have seen about ten thousand dollars worth of things I'd like, but only in the store windows as our auto went past."

"Glad the auto didn't stop," from Doug.

"I'd like to run around Paris alone," continued "Our Mary." "And find delightful bargains in frilly things and ducky blouses and other things that women like to shop for. And after I'd bought clothes, I'd like to browse around the jewelry shops in the Rue de la Paix."

"(Where you pay and pay and pay?" commented Doug.)

Mary quit then, and turned to a discussion of American women and others.

INTERVIEW WITHOUT WORDS WITH MADAME ORIKA KAMATSU

MADAME ORIKA KAMATSU

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—"Goo Mo-ra-ceng."

It was such a light, thistle-down voice and such a dainty little lady, slim of waist, slim of ankle, small of feet. The latter, pink enough to have been rouged and dainty enough to have been manicured, were thrust bare into tiny pink satin sandals.

"Eh-a?" With a delicate rising inflection and a pretty smile. Madame Orika Kamatsu didn't understand English very well. She's the wife of the chief advisor with the Japanese delegation here.

We were helpless! But there is a language every woman understands—clothes. So Madame Kamatsu opened one of her huge trunks and began laying out her costumes.

"Evening gown," delicately. She held up a wonderful thing

green, shimmering green silken crepe with a border of heavy pink roses and lined with padded white silk. The sleeves of the gorgeous garment must have reached to the very toes of the dainty little Madame Kamatsu.

"Ovi," she said and wound around her very slim waist a width of gold embroidered silk.

"Evening gown." Again, and she laid out a handsome thing in black with a fastened lining of scarlet and a loose lining of white, silk of gossamer softness. Flowers in law-enders and pinks bordered the gown, which was very long.

"Ovi." The gown was gold embroidered in blue and scarlet.

Madame Kamatsu's husband is a graduate of Harvard university and distinguished himself while there for his ability in public speaking.

YOU'D BE NERVOUS, TOO!

They say folks bite their fingers and do things like that when they're nervous. That's excuse for these youngsters who are "eating" their thumbs and pulling their feet. They've been adjudged perfect babies at the New York health show and they're posing to show the world how perfectly perfect babies behave.

COOKING FOR TWO

Sister Mary Tells How to Make Puddings

To make a dessert small enough for two persons is quite a problem. Few desserts are good the second day, and most are unfit to use. Choose small pudding dishes and pie pans, include a small Dover beater with a small earthen bowl for beating egg yolks in your kitchen equipment. This beater and bowl will be indispensable for desserts of all kinds and very convenient for salad dressings.

Cocunut Tapioca

One-third cup pearl tapioca, 1 egg, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons grated cocunut (fresh or dried), 2 more tablespoons sugar. Soak tapioca in milk over night or if the pudding is wanted for dinner, put the tapioca to soak in the morning. Add sugar and yolk of egg well beaten with the salt. Add vanilla. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a slow oven about half an hour. Beat white of eggs till stiff and dry with a whisk. Add sugar and coconut and spread over pudding. Put in hot oven to brown the top. Serve warm.

Milk Pudding

Two tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup flour, 1-3 cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 pound figs, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Wash figs and cook until tender. This will take about 1 1/2 hours. Add the sugar when half done and have about 1/2 cup of juice with the figs when done. Drain from sirup and chop. Cream butter and sugar. Sift in a little flour. Add yolk of egg well beaten. Mix and sift flour and baking powder and add alternately to mixture with milk. Mix well and stir in chopped figs. Pour into a pudding dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Save the sirup from the figs and the white of the egg for the sauce.

Pudding Sauce

One-half cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg white, 1/2 cup fig juice. Cream butter and sift in sugar. Beat until creamy. When ready to serve add the juice of the figs (hot). Add the white of egg beaten till stiff and dry with a whisk. The egg must be beaten on a platter with a whisk or silver fork.

Cottage Pudding

One tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 cup milk, 1 egg, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-1/2 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter, add sugar and beat to a cream. Add yolk of egg well beaten. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately to first mixture with milk and vanilla. Turn into buttered and floured muffin pans and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve warm with maple sauce.

Maple Sauce

One-half cup of maple sirup, 1 egg white.

Beat white of egg till stiff in bowl with a Dover beater. Cook sirup until it forms a very soft ball when tried in cold water. Pour into the egg white slowly, beating well after each addition of sirup. Beat two or three minutes after all the sirup is in and pour over pudding.

WOMEN TO AID EUROPEAN COLLEGE STUDENTS

(By N.E.A. Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A half-million dollars, to be known as the "Student Friendship Fund" to pay for food, clothing and medical aid for young men and women students in European universities, is being raised by American students. The plan is being pushed by club women and women educators under the leadership of Mrs. Robert E. If I walked up town I felt so bad I had to go to bed and I was not able to do much of my housework. I would have hemorrhages every two weeks and dragging down pains. I had been feeling badly for three years and had two of the best doctors in the city, but I kept getting worse and only weighed 125 pounds. I saw your advertisement and I took eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and your Liver Pills and noticed an improvement right away. Now I weigh 138 pounds and feel fine. Everybody tells me how well I look and asks me what I took and I always say, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the best medicine in the world for any sickness to which girls and women are subject.' I will always have a good word for your medicine and you may use my name whenever you wish."

THE VOTERS' VERDICT

On next Tuesday will come the first test of the ability of the electorate to pick out good men to conduct the city's business for the next two years. Whether the new charter will prove a success and give the city better returns for the money expended will depend upon whether the right stamp of men be sent to city hall to direct the government.

The task before the voters is, in a measure, rather difficult because of the array of candidates and the fact that many of them are entirely unknown to the vast bulk of the voters. There are in all 171 candidates for seventeen offices, an average of ten candidates for each place to be filled.

In that list of candidates there is a sufficient number eminently qualified for the positions they seek; but unfortunately the voters often vote for the unit whom they know, in preference to the eminently fit whom they don't know. It is this practice that has defeated many a good city charter and has demoralized many a city government. Personal appeals by candidates sway the action of the electorate to an extent that defeats the purpose of those who want good government and want to elect only those who are capable of getting results.

In some cities a Good Government association is organized to help the citizens in making a right selection. In Lawrence a Civic League has been formed for this purpose; but here the voters are left to exercise their own unaided judgment. If they keep in mind the fact that they are selecting servants to handle large affairs, and upon whose honesty, judgment and ability will depend whether the people of Lowell will get what they pay for during the next two years, they may meet the emergency with reasonable success.

Looking over the list of candidates for the council, we note the names of at least twenty-five men who, if elected, would make ideal councilors. But of these perhaps not over six will be elected. The others will be chosen from among the less competent and the council will be so much weaker as a result.

May we repeat that the responsibility is up to the electorate, which means that it is shared equally by all the citizens who are entitled to vote. This individual duty can be discharged only by going to the polls and voting for the best or most capable candidates on the ballot. What is true of the council contest in this respect is equally true of the race for the mayoralty and school board.

NOT A MIRACLE

Some American business men are said to "wonder how Germany can do it." They refer to the "wonderful recovery" of German trade and the immense and steadily increasing shipments of German-made goods to remote parts of the earth. American industries are beginning to feel the effects of German competition. And it will take some time for a readjustment of trade conditions to offset the coming of goods made by low-priced labor and sold at prices below what similar goods can be produced for right here at home. And yet the Germans are doing only what other nations would do and have done in the past so far as their resources, trade conditions and price-lists on manufactured goods have allowed them to do.

The allies did the erstwhile enemy across the ocean a great service in making it disband its armies. Millions of ex-warriors in the Fatherland are turning their attention to useful industry, which is as it should be. Germany could not hope to regain its footing in the world's trade markets or recover any measure of the world's respect had it not re-established itself by resuming "business at the same old stand." And it is doing almost unheard of things in redeeming itself in the industrial life of the world.

And yet it is not in any way a miracle, as some would call it. Germany is following the only course possible for her to take under the circumstances, to wit: raising food that is sorely needed, creating and producing, instead of wasting time or money, stepping over parade grounds in battle array. The work being done today in Germany has many features that may seem oppressive, but the men are willing to work such long hours that the government is trying to curb the evil.

The United States must find a means of checking this influx of German-made goods if our factories are to be kept running and if the American workman is to receive a living wage.

ADMIRAL SIMS' VIEW

Most people will agree with Admiral Sims when he says that the reduction of naval armaments will not prevent war if the cause of friction among the great powers be not removed by the present conference. It is obvious that with Japan's ambition in Asia unchanged, with the American policy of the open door in China untouched, and the alliance between England and Japan still in force, the United States is placing itself in jeopardy by reducing her navy unless these controversial questions are settled by an iron clad agreement.

The admiral is right when he says that it would be useless to scrap capital ships at the present time if later on war should break out and the nation should be compelled to expend a stupendous amount in hurry-up orders for ships and material to meet the exigencies of war.

That apparently is one of the great dangers to be guarded against, and it is this possibility that has led to the inquiry as to who devised the arms conference wants to scrap all plans put forward by Secretary such craft; and it is not improbable

Hughes. Already some of the newspapers credit it to President Harding; but it was probably a joint affair arrived at after deliberation by the president, Secretary Hughes, the secretary of the navy and a few naval experts. Judging from the statement issued by Admiral Sims, it would not appear that he had been consulted in reference to the policies of reducing naval armaments.

WASHINGTON CELEBRITIES

Writers with no grudges to satisfy are seldom found when books built upon life in Washington and its environs, including the broader areas of politics, are turned out for public consumption. Those who have read "The Mirrors of Washington" from the pen of a man so well informed as Edward G. Lowry, will have a better taste in their mouths. Mr. Lowry apparently has no grudges to exploit. He is fair in his amusing criticisms, despite their incisive structures upon the public men whose character is the subject of his scrutiny. His character sketches of Washington "familiar" show no ugliness.

President Harding's smile blazes the frontispiece. He is called "The Great Emollient." Our erstwhile governor, Calvin Coolidge, bears the peculiarly appropriate title of "The Foster-child of Silence." No one can think of Postmaster Hays and not smile a bit when he is called "The Human Flyer." But did not Mr. Lowry have something concealed up his sleeve when he headed the chapter devoted to our own senator, Henry Cabot Lodge, "The Very Best Butter"? Evidently Lowry is a man such as Shakespeare described as a keen observer who looks quite through the deeds of men.

BETTER BANKING LAWS

At the state house on next Monday will be held a hearing before the special commission on revision of the banking laws for the purpose of securing suggestions for the improvement of the state banking laws.

It would seem that the commission may find very much that will assist it materially in its work, by looking into the financial operations by which a number of Boston banks have been wrecked during the past two years. Although the banking laws of this state are probably as good as those of any other state, yet abuses were allowed to be carried on in Boston that were openly in violation of every principle of honest business and the usual practice of financial institutions everywhere.

A rule that would forbid banks mixing in politics might do some good in certain cases. Undoubtedly the commission will receive some valuable suggestions and if it means business, it should favor restrictions that will offer greater protection not only to depositors but to business men in their dealings with banks which are supposed to be strictly honest and fair toward all their patrons. One of the improvements necessary is to compel bank directors to direct and bank inspectors inspect.

JAPAN'S NEW PREMIER

Some speculation was indulged as to what would be the outcome of the assassination of Premier Hara of Japan. Those who suspected that any radical change of policies would be adopted, are now relieved by the announcement that the vacancy has been filled by Baron Takahashi, who is one of the leading lieutenants of the late premier. The new premier is also an eminent financier, having for many years been at the head of the leading financial institution of Japan and having made several trips to the United States to study the banking methods of that country.

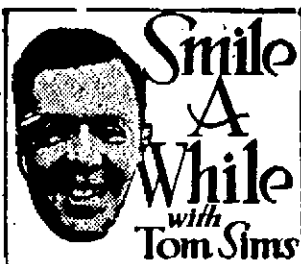

It was he who saved Japan by negotiating loans amounting to $200,000,000, in Great Britain and in the United States to enable Japan to maintain her war with Russia in 1904-5. So far as the policy of the present premier is concerned, it will follow the same pacific lines laid down by Premier Hara and will, therefore, be exerted against the tendency of the militarists of Japan to promote measures that might precipitate war with some of the other great powers.

INDIAN TROUBLES

The Prince of Wales must have been somewhat shocked by the outbreak in Bombay on the day of his arrival there. He is well guarded and in no danger of attack; but this uprising was probably a protest against British rule in India. Only a few days ago, it was announced that 700 Indian rebels had been killed in an outbreak on one of the Indian provinces. The opposition to British authority has taken on the form of passive resistance, or in other words, a modification of the boycott, which refuses to recognize British authority or to have any dealing with British officials. Inasmuch as India has a limited form of home rule, and many of the natives hold civil service positions, they can make very serious trouble for England if they take up the form of opposition favored by the advocates of independence.

THE SUBMARINE

Three submarines, with a cruising radius of 10,000 miles, are being built for the American navy. Each will carry a crew of 34 men and will be able to cruise a month without taking on supplies. These submarines will please militarists. They also should please peace advocates. Developed as a war device, the submarine's greatest use will be exploration of the ocean depths. War thus is a path to peace-time progress. Another instance is the airplane. But the British delegation at the arms conference wants to scrap all plans put forward by Secretary such craft; and it is not improbable

CITY DEPARTMENTS WELL MOTORIZED

As a result of investigation by the auditor's department at the request of a municipal research bureau it has been learned that the city of Lowell possesses 45 motor vehicles of all descriptions, including the police motor cycles, the departmental automobiles and trucks and the fire department's pumping engines, the last named valued as high as $10,000 each.

There are 17 automobiles in the fire department, mostly apparatus for use at fires. There are a few others which are of the ordinary type of passenger car.

Five motor cycles, one ambulance, two police patrols, seven trucks and thirteen passenger cars complete the roster in the other departments.

that these, too, may go to the discard with our 30 capital ships.

RAILROADS

The railroads made $330,665,927 net profits in the 12 months ended last August 31. In announcing this, the Association of Railway Executives points out that it is an annual earning of a fraction less than 3 per cent on investment.

Grain growers, cattlemen, cotton planters and many manufacturers who have been selling at a loss will envy the poor, unfortunate railroads, still calling to the government—"Save us or we perish."

Will there be recounts of the primary vote? Well, very probably some of the contests will be so close that the defeated candidates will want the satisfaction of knowing that they were not the victims of any error in figures.

He Woun't Hesitate

Farmer Hayseed, out of pity, gave a feeble-minded boy a job. One afternoon the farmer was walking across one of his fields, when he thought he would go and see what the boy was doing. He found him lying on the ground under a tree, smoking. "Well, Simon," he said, "what are you doing—resting?" Simon took his cigarette out of his mouth and answered: "No, I'm not resting, 'cause I'm not tired. I'm just layin' here waitin' for the sun to go down, so I can leave work!"

The Switch Engine

I sometimes travel, says Dr. Barton, and many a time I subject to the tender mercies such as they be of the Pullman company. And I sometimes wake in the night when the train has reached a junction. And it happens often that a "switch engine" cometh up behind, and catcheth hold of two or three cars and cometh away with them as though it were an automobile hand. And it puffeth and it snorteth and it goeth fast, but it goeth not far. For presently it runneth upon a side-track and leaveeth a sleeper. And then it runneth over to another side-track and picketh up a sleeper. And sometimes it cutteth out a chair-car, or ketcheth on a dinner car, and its operations doth it perform with commendable industry, and no undue modesty. For it saith as it snorteth about—it is up to me to make up this train in twenty minutes, and behold it run in five minutes late, and the old man will be red in the face if he pull not out on time. Therefore I set busy, and cut two or three cars and set in three, and what happeneth unto the train after that belongeth not unto me, and I should worry. Now this process foeth the inexperienced traveler. For he heareth the snorting, and he feeleth the rapid motion, and he saith, behold, now we are going home. And just then his car bumpeth up against the Cedar Rapids sleeper, and driveth sleep from his eyes and slumber from his eyelids. But this process foeth me not. When the train stoppeth in the night, and we start up suddenly and with rapid motion, and with much snorting of the engine, then I know that we are running down into the yards with two or three cars, to pick up a sleeper from Oskosh, or to leave one for Oconomowoc. And I prepare for the bump. Now there he goeth men who come to me to promote good causes. And there be some who look onto every new movement that putteth in the union depot, and haul it up and down the main line and the adjacent sidings, and with much puffing announce the near arrival of the millennium. And these be useful men. I know not how without them we should make up our trains of organization and religious devotion. But I am not wholly fooled by the whoop and hurrah; neither do I altogether deceive myself with the initial speed of these divers and sundry enterprises. I know that as yet we are not out of the yards, and that when we really get going, and to pulling freight, it will be with a more solemn and sedate evidence of order than is witnessed when we are only picking up the sleeper from Kalamazoo. For the switch engine, though it be a worthy and industrious and commendable factor in human progress, is not that which furnishes the sustained power for the long grade and the steady pull. Wherefore, when a good cause is starting, I applaud the speed with which we get under way, but I wait for the staid and slower pull that doth certify that we are out on the main line, and actually moving toward our destination.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

In my rambling about the city I have noticed the bobbed haired girl is fast disappearing. A year or so ago bobbed hair was all the rage. Girls, especially those in the tender age, thought their hair must be bobbed if they were to be considered in style. Opposition by the older and more sensible young women soon discouraged this practice, classing it unwomanly, flighty and disrespectful. It is good to see the clipped locks once more reaching hopefully toward the shoulder. Woman's hair has been worn long since the time of Eve. Style may come and go but it can seldom change a custom of such long standing.

Business in superior court must be real good if the stream of autos drawn up in front of the building each day can be taken as a criterion. Both sides of the street are taken up by machines. Many of these no doubt belong to attorneys. As usual, Ford predominates among those parked.

Quarter Century Ago

Just 25 years ago there was a baby show in Huntington hall, at which prizes were awarded as in rated in the following from the old Sun: "The baby show at Huntington hall Saturday attracted not less than 300 babies with their mothers. The sight was comical when some of the babies lost their mothers and were crying 'Mamma' as loud as they could bawl." "The prizes were awarded to the following: Youngest babies present, Stella Noyes and Joseph F. Wesselle; best natured babies present, Adelbert Adams and Stella Fox; handsomest babies present, Ethel Coddling, and Harry Dawson; best twins, Albert and Alton Dawson. The diamond awarded to the most interesting baby present went to Hazel McDonald, who received 57 votes. The other prizes were silver mugs."

It would be interesting to find those babies now and ascertain whether they have retained or increased the good qualities that brought such notable admiration in infancy.

Squire Curtin Remembered

From the old Sun: "William F. Curtin was the happy recipient today of an oak roll top desk, which was presented to him by his former associates at the laboratory of C. I. Hood and Company."

"Just after the close of business at Hood's laboratory this noon, Mr. Curtin responded to a telephone call and was escorted to the shipping room by Supt. Sturtevant, where there was gathered a large number of the employees."

"Win" was at his best, and in a few pleasing remarks, asked Mr. Curtin to accept the desk which at this time was uncovered and proved to be one of the choicest selections from the warehouses of the Derby Desk Company, of Boston, an expression of good will and best wishes from his former associates and also to commemorate his admission as a member of the Middlesex bar.

"Mr. Curtin, although completely surprised, made a very neat and cordial response."

Vesper Golf Victory

In the following item from the old Sun is given an account of a golf victory won by the Vesper Country Club.

The Lexington Golf club team came to Lowell Saturday morning to play with the Vesper Country club team for the possession of the neighborhood cup. The cup remains in Lowell, the home team being the winner, 20 to 4. Play began at 2 o'clock on the course at Tyng's Island. The players went around in pairs, three rounds of the six hole course. James Thorpe, of the Vesper Country club, was pitted against Swan, of the Lexingtons. Chadwick, against Page. Corwin against Tyler, Ames against Pechin, Gage against Perkins and Bean against Stowell. One of the closest matches was that between Thorpe and Swan. It was won by the latter in the last two holes. The medal score of this pair was 85 for Swan and 83 for Thorpe. In the Page-Chadwick match the Lexington man was considerably overmatched. Mr. Chadwick leading nearly the entire three rounds. Swan and Stowell halved their match with very close play on both sides. It was a signal victory for the Vespers."

Captain Hinnacorn

Says the old Sun: "Captain George A. Hinnacorn, of the late U. S. Navy, died at his home in Northampton, after a brief illness."

"He was born at Elliot, Me., June 25, 1835, and had a very eventful career."

"At the age of 14 years his father and mother both being dead, he went to Boston and lived on the Maine Democrat published in Saco and later in company with Mr. Campbell and the latter's father, published the Manchester Union."

"He had a long experience at sea, having run vessels to India from Liverpool from 1853 for 20 years."

Captain Hinnacorn, with Mr. James Campbell published the Lowell Morning Times from Nov. 1872, the paper suspended about the time of Captain Hinnacorn's death. The Times was a bright newspaper in its day. It was originally started by Dr. Smith.

Mathews of Billerica

From the old Sun: "The ninth anniversary concert and ball of the Father Mathew Temperance society of North Billerica was held in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall last night. The attendance included guests from this city and Fitchburg."

The evening's program opened with an address of welcome by the president, John J. Mahoney. The Y.M.C.I. quartet, D. J. O'Brien and Miss Maggie McCaffrey, all of Lowell, sang several selections.

The officers of the evening were: General manager, John J. Mahoney; assistant, Thomas P. Sheridan; floor director, Charles C. Fairbrother; assistant, Daniel J. Fitzpatrick; aides, John B. Nugent, John B. Kearney, Edmund B. Costello, John J. Connelly."

The Mathews of North Billerica is still a thriving temperance organization.

FAIR OPENED IN NO. BILLERICA

The 34th annual fair under the auspices of St. Anne's church in North Billerica opened last evening in the vestry of the church and was largely attended. The program of the evening included a playlet entitled "The Family Album," presented by the "lover club," violin Gunther, and piano selections and Praying Mills. These in charge of the various sales tables reported a thriving business.

The tables were presided over by the following: Guild: Mrs. Perley Batchelder, Mrs. Skins. Carelessly tossed on our slides. Within the last three days I have seen at least a half dozen people either fall or slip after stepping on these skins and have been wondering if damage suits will result. Regardless of who may directly responsible, I believe the author in such a case can be held responsible in claims for damages resulting from such accidents.

BERTON BRALEY

AT THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

America spoke, in the words of Hughes and over the planet there flashed the news;

"A great land speaks in a strong man's voice and 'peace' is the magic word."

It plumed, the depths of the world's desires and back there came, on the ringing wires

A mighty response from the ends of earth—a message that must be heard.

And laid his cards on the table there in the light of the open day.

And whether or not the others willed, the hearts of men with a hope were thrilled;

Yes, out of the murk and slime of war America showed the way.

Ah! thus, when the conference met again, that group of eminent gentlemen,

Blinking a bit in the light they faced—the light of a whole world's gaze,

Rose in turn to their feet and spoke for their nations' simple and common folk,

Pledging their faith to the newer code, the code of the coming days.

Kato, admiral of Japan, a slim, cadaverous little man,

Promised his country's earnest aid in seeing the vision through.

Schanzer, Italy's delegate, in phrases simple but adequate,

While Briand, orator skilled and splendid, whose voice is zephyr and tempest blended, Intoned a passionate hymn to peace as the hope and dream of France.

And those who had sneered and jeered and said "Idealism" was crushed and dead.

Who came to scoff at the conference—those cynics remained, and prayed;

For a nation said, "We have wealth and might, yet here we stand in the whole world's sight

Generals, admirals, diplomats, secretaries in silken hats,

Congressmen, senators, millionaires, power and wealth were there;

Chinese, Japanese, French and Dutch—and beautiful women to give a touch

India, England and U. S. A. were all a part of the blithe display, Yet for all the color and light and life—the spirit was fine and high.

The solemn spirit of those who see the wondrous promise of days to be,

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

The details of the disarmament conference now in progress at Washington are being followed as part of the regular class work by the members of the American history and civics classes at the high school. Headmaster Henry H. Harris is doing this in accordance with a request from Payson Smith, the commissioner of education for Massachusetts. The disarmament proceedings are considered important enough to be made the subject of study in the schools and hence are being carefully gone over. The basis of class discussion in the high school are the weekly summaries being published by the Literary Digest. Provisions for the permanent preservation of the records of the disarmament conference in the school library are also being made. The request of Commissioner Smith was made after the recommendation of Governor Cox, that the conference be studied in the schools, was made.

FIRE ON LIGHT POLE

The alarm from box 51 at 7:30 o'clock last night was for a slight blaze on an electric light pole at the corner of Andover and Payette streets, caused by a short circuit in one of the wires. At 10 o'clock an alarm was sent in from box 324 for a slight blaze in a hen coop in Circuit avenue, Wiggsville.

CLUB CITIZENS-AMERICANS

The regular monthly whist and social under the auspices of Club Citizens-Americans was held last evening in the hall of the organization in Middle street, with about 350 in attendance. While the card game was being conducted in one of the small halls under the direction of the president, Narcisse Foucher, general dancing was being enjoyed in the assembly hall, the general manager being Treffe Bordelieu. At the close of the evening suitable prizes were awarded the winners at whist, the judges being Joseph F. Montminy, Henri Blanchette and Onesime Trumbly. The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of the following: Onesime Trumbly, chairman; Philippe Bourque, secretary; Treffe Bordelieu, vice chairman; George Ducharme, treasurer; Alfred Genset, Philias Rochette and Zenon Chouinard.

Statement On Behalf Of Japan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—A statement on behalf of Japan on several questions relating to the Far East, was made at today's session of the conference committee on Pacific and Far Eastern affairs. John J. Donovan FOR Mayor!

Men and Women: You said by the charter vote: "GO"—It was a verdict!

You said to the government: "You have failed—Discharged!"

Three of the City Hall "Happy Family" think you did not mean it!

The Mayor says: "I am a 'good fellow'; don't close the door on me."

The Commissioner says: "So am I."

The Assessor disowns the "City Hall Crowd."

But does that qualify him?

Your verdict stands—"GO!"—They must "GO."

"GO!"—Keep that slogan. "GO!" they must.

They sing the Swan song: "Will you open the door and let me in?"

Answer them, "No!"—Lock, bolt and bar the door.

Say to John J. Donovan: "We put you in charge to do your duty!"

Should they cry aloud, "Law and Order?" "Clean City," charge them with False Pretences.

Then, as Mayor, John J. Donovan would enforce your Charter Verdict and on the report to you put this saying: "I kept my trust—They have GONE!"

ADMIRAL SIMS TALKS

Discusses "Military Conservatism" at Naval War College Graduation

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 19.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims in deliver-

Extreme Nervousness

The steady use of a particular set of muscles tends to chronic fatigue, which produces faulty or difficult motion, trembling, cramps and even paralysis. Writers, telegraphers, tailors and seamstresses are among the classes most threatened in this way with the loss of their power to earn a living. The only safeguard is to keep up the supply of nerve force through the blood, which carries to the nerves the food that supports their strength. The nerve power may be recovered after it seems entirely lost, if the right means are taken.

The first thing to do when threatened with nervous trouble is to stop the cause of it, if possible, whether it is irregular living, worry, or whatever it may be. Then the nerves must be given special nourishment and the blood must be kept pure and rich. This is the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and this is why the pills have been used with such great success in nervous troubles that did not yield to ordinary methods of treatment.

The free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," will interest you. Write for it today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 60 cents a box.—Adv.

ing his annual address as president of the naval war college to its graduating class of officers today, discussed "military conservatism," referring specifically to that time and degree of conservatism "which has so often been responsible for defeat in battle, and sometimes for national disaster."

After quoting from history to show that there has always been resistance to new weapons or methods of warfare, he said:

"The rapid development of the submarine and the airplane during the war, and the continuous development of both, and especially the latter, since the war, have shown that these powerful weapons are still in their infancy; that great possibilities of development are clearly in sight; and that it will require the most careful, devoted, and logical consideration upon our part even to keep abreast of the developments in foreign navies, much less to anticipate these developments."

MARY GOES SHOPPING IN PARIS

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Mary Pickford has been shopping over in Paris. Shown here are two of her purchases.

Of course, every woman of the youthful, ingenuous type will immediately take notice.

Mary purchased a lot of gowns in Paris, but none of them is more girlishly chic than the rose taffeta of afternoon.

This simple bodice with the slightly low neck and with the merest sus-

Silken flowers decorate the ribbons and tiny wreaths of flowers strap the shoulders. This gown is of chiffon over taffeta.

Both gowns are long.

WHIST AND ENTERTAINMENT

A very successful whist and entertainment was conducted in St. Louis parish hall in Beaulieu street last evening. The affair was given by the St. Louis branch of the St. Vincent de Paul society and was largely attended. In the early part of the evening whist was played and the winners were awarded suitable prizes. Later a varied entertainment program was given. At the close of the evening there were remarks by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Lamberiere and Dr. Rodrigue Mignault. The turkey drawing in connection with the affair was brought to a close and the lucky winner was Joseph Gendron of 33 Allen avenue. Another drawing contest was also brought to a close and the winner, Mrs. Hilda Benoit, was given a gold watch. The affair was in charge of a committee headed by Almeric Branchaud.

TO HIS HONOR PERRY D. THOMPSON, MAYOR OF THE CITY OF LOWELL

STR.—On April 15th last, you granted an interview to a duly named representative of Local No. 2, International Leather Workers of America.

The purpose of the interview being to request permission to hold a Tag Day, so called, for the benefit of the strikers of Peabody, Mass., members of International Leather Workers of America.

At such interview you granted permission and suggested to us that when we had determined upon a date we should notify you and you would issue the permit.

At a later date we did, through our representative, inform you of the date and we were refused permission to hold a Tag Day on the grounds that there had developed opposition to it. Our representative asked for particulars as to what the opposition was and from what source it came, and he was abruptly interrupted by you and told to leave your office.

It now coming to your attention that you deny the above facts and being desirous, once and for all, to determine your position and your account of what did transpire, you are respectfully asked to answer the following specific questions:

Did you, Mr. Thompson, on April 18, 1921, assume or promise a representative of Local No. 2, International Leather Workers of America, that you would grant it permission to hold a Tag Day in Lowell, for the benefit of the striking brothers of Peabody, Mass., upon the date agreeable to the union?

Did you later, when the same representative called upon you for the purpose of informing you of the date agreed upon by the union and for the further purpose of obtaining a permit, say in effect, that opposition had arisen and that you could not grant the permit?

Did you any when questioned by a representative of the Union to state what the opposition was, answer him by saying, "Did you come here in fight? If so, you may leave this office at once," and did you thereby terminate the interview?

Your answers to these questions and whatever explanation you may desire to offer are urgently requested.

We are,
Respectfully yours,
United Leather Workers, International Union of America, Local 2.

To the Voters of Lowell

The machine is on its last legs and fighting for its very existence. Here is the dying swan-song of the gang. They are around telling the voters that Sam Scott is a good fellow and has the ability to make a good Mayor; but you are wasting your vote. This is propaganda. I can assure you that there will be enough votes left to make Sam Scott Mayor of Lowell.

If you think that I have the ability to make a good Mayor, vote for me and have your friends do likewise.

The cry is now going out to the voters that Sam Scott must be headed off and defeated in the primaries for the nomination, because if nominated he cannot be beaten by all the propaganda and power of the gang.

The cry is now going out to the voters not to vote for Scott. Why? Because with all their power they cannot find the man that can get his promise to not bother the ring. If I am your choice for Mayor I give you, the voters, my word that I will step into the office of Mayor under a commitment to no one but the whole people of Lowell. I could get many votes if I would make them promises, but this I refuse to do.

If I had to go to City Hall tied hand and foot by different politicians to nominate them for this and that office, I can assure you that I would never have been a candidate. Easy money, easy chairs and easy living will not exist at City Hall if I am your choice.

I want your vote if these sentiments meet with your approval. I am a successful business man. I have tried all my life to do the right thing in all my dealings with the public. I have never been bulldozed or bought. I have made a success for myself and believe I could make the same success for you as Mayor.

Having adopted a New Charter you should have a new man for Mayor.

GEORGE L. OLES, NEW MAYOR OF YOUNGSTOWN, O., AND HIS WIFE

By N.E.A. Service

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 18.—"If you want to be anything or anybody, pick out a good wife. She'll help you more than anybody else."

That's the advice of George L. Oles, new mayor of Youngstown. He gives his wife credit for enabling him to rise from a huckster to a wealthy market owner, rated in Bradstreet's at $500,000.

Move to Youngstown in July and he elected mayor against strong opposition the following November.

Republican and democratic candidates already were in the mayoralty race here when Oles jumped in with both feet as an independent. His platform was "Let George do it."

serting lines in the advertisement of his market in the daily papers.

Beis on Himself

Nobody thought he'd win. So he bet on himself, offering big odds. And when the election results were announced, he found he'd cleaned up enough to pay the campaign expenses.

Policies of Oles' administration will be:

More policemen.

Spooning in parks under police protection.

Every mother an aid to the police.

Exclusion of crooks, gamblers and bootleggers and closing of club bars.

Oles will interpret this platform from time to time by insertions in his market advertisement. For instance:

"Patrolman Jones was seen drinking a scuttle of suds last night in a West Federal street cafe. Mayor Oles says this is the last chance for Jones as well as the cafe proprietor. Oles 10-cent loaf of hot bread, fresh every minute, biggest and best in the city."

Oles has been supporting 50 families, made destitute by depression in the local steel mills, for the last five months. And he didn't use that for campaign propaganda!

Now some of Oles' opponents are trying to oust him from office. He's promised to turn his salary back to the city for civic improvement. His opponents say that's technically a bribe.

TO ASK OTHER NATIONS TO JOIN

Limitation Agreement Not to be Limited to Nations at Conference

Aspect of Armament Negotiations at Washington Broadened

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The aspect of the armament negotiations was broadened today as a result of the disclosure of the administration's purpose not to limit the proposed limitation agreement to the nations represented at the conference but to ask the participation of any other interested nations. In connection with such an agreement, administration officials expressed the belief that unless it took the form of a treaty rather than an "understanding" of policy, the entire program for this nation, including the scrapping of warships could be put through without congressional action. They could not predict, however, which of these forms it would take, if consummated.

Delegations of all the powers were believed to be fully prepared to present their views on the plan presented by China for settlement of questions involving her status when they met today in executive session to resume the Far Eastern discussions. While all may not desire to commit themselves in detail on specific points, it was expected that progress would be made in considering the Chinese plan at least as a basis for committee discussions.

Particularly the Japanese delegation, whose views will be presented in a statement by Ambassador Saito, had indicated a preference to have their policies developed step by step, as the negotiations continued and were prepared at this stage to ask for an interpretation of some of the Chinese "10 points." Whether the Chinese proposal for a re-examination of the stat-

GIL'S BUSTER KEATON OF GRIDIRON GAME

By N.E.A. Service

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The coach who never smiles on the football field. That's Gil Dobie, lanky gridiron mentor of Cornell University, who has taken a squad of ordinary football material and made of it one of the greatest teams in the country.

It is no new thing, however, for Dobie to perform miracles. At University of Washington and at Annapolis he turned out winning eleven and surprised the world.

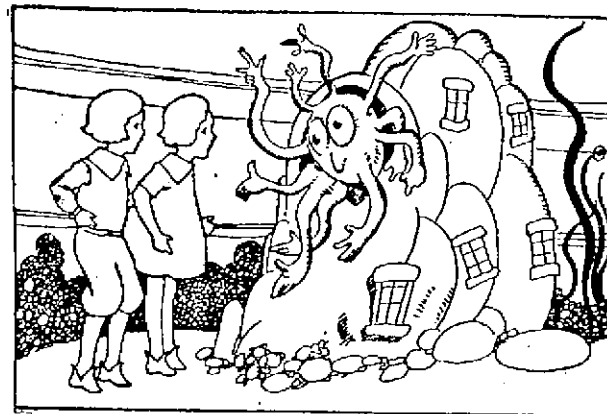

So serious is Dobie at all times that even his closest friends always think of him as "Gloomy Gil." No one has seen him smile on the football field this season. It is not in the makeup of the Cornell coach.

Even when his team defeated Dartmouth 59 to 7, Gil did not smile. Nor did he crack the faintest sort of a smile when his team humbled Columbia 41 to 7, even though "Buck" O'Neill, former Syracuse coach and mentor at Columbia, has always ridiculed Dobie's style of coaching.

Adventures of the Twins

A MYSTERY

"THROW IT AWAY," SAID MR. NAUTILUS, MYSTERIOUSLY

The queer looking creature that Nancy and Nick had discovered looked pretty sour when he heard that it was his house and not himself that Nancy admired.

"Humph," he grunted. "House? What kind of a house do you think I'd have if I didn't build it? I'm the prize builder of the land of the wiggle-greens. I'm Mr. Nautilus."

"Isn't there a poem about you?" said Nick. "I believe so," answered Mr. Nautilus, proudly.

"What why are you building?" asked Nancy, curiously. "Four houses looks so lovely and smooth and perfect. Isn't it finished?"

"It's never finished," answered Mr. Nautilus. "Every little while I build a new room larger than the last one. And then I lock the door of the old room and live in the new room. My shoes could and did make them as 'like blue beads' house," whispered Nick. "And do you hide the key?"

"Throw it away," said Mr. Nautilus, mysteriously. "What is gone is gone. What is closed is closed."

"But what do you keep in your locked rooms?" persisted the little girl. She was as curious as Blue Beard's last wife.

"It's a secret," whispered the nautilus, mysteriously.

Suddenly an idea occurred to both twins at the same instant. Could Mr. Nautilus be hiding wicked Mr. Hermit Crab? Was it possible?

The white pearly door into the old room was not quite shut. Why was Mr. Nautilus hurrying so to close it?

"Come, Nancy," whispered Nick. "Let's go in and find out what's there."

Before Mr. Nautilus could stop them, they had scurried, for, just as Captain Pennywinkle had said, their green shoes could and did make them as 'like blue beads' house," whispered Nick. "And do you hide the key?"

MAY SELL OLD BUILDING

The sale at public auction within a short time of the old lighting station at the corner of Fletcher and Willis streets has been announced. Commissioner Murphy states that he will make a motion to that effect at an early meeting of the council as the building is practically of no value to the city so far as its use is concerned, and the proceeds will be an addition to the general treasury fund. It seems likely that the municipal council will agree with the commissioner's view.

CADILLAC CAR IN FOUR PARADE

When Marshal Ferdinand Foch rode forth in parade Monday of last week and all Detroit paid homage to the supreme commander of the allies, no detail of comfort or sentiment had been omitted.

A Cadillac car bore the great marshal and was detailed to his use while in Detroit. The Cadillac car was chosen for many reasons, but mainly because of its remarkable record overseas during the world war.

It was adopted by the American government as the standard seven-passenger car, due largely to the outcome of a 2000-mile competitive test at Austin, Tex. The United States Marine Corps followed the example of the army. Its standardization board adopting the Cadillac as the standard officers' car. Its great record overseas is now history. A total of 2095 cars were shipped overseas, 199 to various posts and camps in this country and 235 were delivered to the Canadian government.

The French highly prized their Cadillac cars, too, and early in the war the United States Motor Transport Corps sold 10 to the French general staff. It was frequently stated that, to be safe, officers and men always saluted every Cadillac car because so many high officers rode in Cadillacs.

Cadillac cars also carried Marshal Foch and suite on parade in Boston. Capt. Joseph A. Molloy of Lowell drove the Type 61 furnished by Geo. R. Dana.

German Counsellor Arrives at New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Baron Edmund Von Thiermann, counsellor of the German diplomatic service, arrived today on the steamer Hellig Olav to make preparations for the re-establishment of diplomatic and consular relations with the United States.

Naval Experts To Discuss Submarines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Submarines are certain to figure largely in deliberations of naval experts of the "big five" group now in progress. That is one feature of the American proposals for reduction and limitation of naval strength which the British have indicated a desire to discuss. It is regarded as virtually certain that the experts will find themselves in agreement that submarines have a very definite place in naval warfare; a legitimate, recognized place, and that no serious proposal to abolish underwater craft will be advanced. There may, however, be some effort to limit the size of future submarines. In the American naval view the whole question of legitimate use of submarines as fleet units is still to be worked out.

German Magnate Called To London

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Hugo Stinnes, German industrial magnate, left here for London last night at the invitation of Prime Minister Lloyd George, according to an announcement today by the Lokal Anzeiger. Presumably, says the announcement, Hugo Stinnes' journey to the English capital is in connection with the German reparations.

DALTON IS HELD FOR THE CHARGE ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

William J. Dalton, charged with breaking and entering in the night time the store of Ephraim Christopoulos, at the corner of Dutton and Fletcher streets, and with stealing two quarts of peanuts valued at one dollar, was held for the superior court by Judge Fisher in district court today. Ball was fixed at $500. Officer Thomas E. Riley, who arrested the defendant, testified that at 3:30 o'clock this morning, while pulling in his box, he heard the noise of breaking glass.

Shortly after, he passed by Christopoulos' store, saw the pane of glass that had been broken and noticed a man in the store. The policeman entered and took Dalton into custody. He further told the court that he found a weight, such as is used in lowering railroad crossing gates, inside the door of the store. The heavy iron piece was shown to the judge.

The defendant stated he was in the company of two other men in the vicinity when he heard the crash of glass. Dalton went to the direction whence the noise had come and "got there before the officer," he told the judge. The two companions had left him, but he entered the store and "investigated." He admitted he was in the store when the officer came along, but stoutly denied he broke the glass.

NINE PERSONS INJURED IN TROLLEY CRASH

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Nine persons sustained minor injuries and a score were frightened and badly shaken up, shortly before 5 o'clock last evening, when two "T" cars, one heavily loaded with passengers, crashed at right angles at the corner of Hampshire and Prospect sts., Cambridge.

The police ambulance from Station 2, Central square, made several trips to the Cambridge City hospital and Cambridge City hospital, with passengers whose injuries required treatment.

Both cars were thrown from the tracks. The lights went out. Windows were shattered. The front vestibule of the one-man car crumpled up as if made of paper, and the vestibule of the articulated car, which received the full force of the collision, was crushed in.

A special meeting of the municipal council has been called by Mayor Thompson to be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The main business to be transacted is the drawing of jurors for demurrers which have come up in superior court at East Cambridge. The delegation from the Lowell Highlands Improvement Association, headed by Thomas J. Fitzgerald, which has been pressing the Washington park playground proposition, spent a couple of hours at city hall this morning, waiting for the arrival of the mayor to hold a conference with the municipal council relative to the city solicitor's progress in preparing for the seizure of the property. The four other commissioners were on hand but the mayor was detained, so shortly after 11 o'clock the delegation decided to arrange a conference for a later date.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Comparative obscure shares figured chiefly in today's sharp and volatile stock market. Low-priced oil, secondary food issues and such transportation as Southern Railway preferred, New York, Ontario and Western and Pere Marquette were active and strong, presumably under guidance of pools. Of the better known stocks, International Paper, Revere and several of the closed Drydocks made moderate gains. Profit-taking and unstable industrial conditions caused reactions in Bethlehem Steel, Pullman and several of the high grade oils and chemicals. The closing was irregular, sales approximating $75,000 shares. Bonds were firm.

NARCOTIC DRUG RULING

35,000 MAY VOTE HERE TUESDAY

Although according to the 1920 census the population of New Bedford exceeds that of Lowell by about 8500, recent registration figures have brought to light the interesting fact that Lowell has at least 6000 more voters than New Bedford. The registration of the latter city has just been announced as 28,185, and although the final figures for Lowell have not yet been announced, we have the assurance of the election commission that they will reach 35,000 at least. Both cities have a considerable foreign-born population, but our city's voting-lists show a much better spirit of Americanization.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS SPEAKS

The Down Town Men's club has secured Hon. John Jacob Rogers to address the next meeting of the club on Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, in the vestry of the First Congregational church. In view of the disarmament conference with its national and international complications of such vital concern to humanity, it is expected that one so closely associated as is "our congressman" with the principles in this world movement, will be intensely interesting at this time. Non-members of the club who wish to hear Congressman Rogers may obtain reservations from any member of the club. Members may bring as many friends as they wish provided they make reservations on or before Saturday, the 26th, at 12 noon. If any tickets remain, they will then be offered to the public. The price of the tickets including supper is fifty cents. Supper begins at 6:00 p. m.

FIREMEN ABANDON TEA

ACTON, Eng. Nov. 19.—The local fire brigade had its annual tea when an alarm came in. The men had to abandon the party and rush off to the fire, which was soon extinguished.

NECK BRACELET LATEST

LONDON, Nov. 19.—A new form of necklace, a neck bracelet, has appeared in a Hanover square shop. It is a solid ring of jet. It has no fastenings and is just large enough to slip on over the head.

FISH DECORATE CHURCH

LONDON, Nov. 19.—With dried haddocks, herrings and 50 other varieties of fish as decoration, the church of St. Magnus the Martyr celebrated the Harvest of the Sea. Canned meats and salmon adorned the pulpit steps and chancel.

CANCEL ANCIENT FEAST

SHEFFIELD, Eng. Nov. 19.—For the first time in 300 years, the annual cutlers' feast has been cancelled. This action was taken when the Duke of York announced his inability to attend the banquet due to the prevalent unemployment.

"DANDERINE"

35-cent Bottle Ends all Dandruff, Stops Hair Coming Out

Ten minutes after using Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first, but really new hair, growing all over the scalp. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow long, strong and luxuriant. One application of Danderine makes thin, lifeless, colorless hair look youthfully bright, lustrous, and just twice as abundant.—Adv.

HUNTERS ARE CHEERFUL PETRIE IS AFTER THEM

Good Bags of Game Reported
by Lowell and Chelmsford
Hunters

Autoists Who Violate Traffic
Laws Are Going to Land
in Court

Lowell and Chelmsford hunters are the latest to report success on expeditions with gun and bag into the country districts. Today good bags of game were reported by Rousseau F. Haynes of Liberty street, Robert Webster of Olney street, and William C. Read of Chelmsford Centre. Earlier in the season Mr. Webster had great success in Nova Scotia.

The open season on upland game birds such as pheasants, grouse or partridge, woodcock and quail closes tonight at sunset after one of the best seasons recorded for many years. Lowell hunters report an excellent season all about the city, there having been numerous pheasants and woodcocks. Fish and game authorities account for this because of the two fine breeding seasons in the springs of 1920 and 1921, aided of course by federal regulations on migratory birds being strictly enforced by local officers.

The shooting of ducks and geese will be in order until January 1. Already the killing of both ducks and geese at many shooting stands at Duxbury and on the Cape is reported large for such warm weather. One stand reports the kill of geese during the week of Nov. 7 as an even 100. This figure is most unusual for the time of the year.

The officers of the Lowell Fish and Game association are to be the guests of the Pointe Fish & Game club of Manchester, N. H., Wednesday evening, Nov. 23, the trip being made in autos. The Merrimack Valley now has three of the largest fish and game clubs to be found in New England, the Lowell club being the largest with about 900 members, the "Lone Pine" hunters' club of Nashua, having 700 and the Manchester organization numbering 600.

The streets of this city will be cleaned of automobile traffic law violators in the near future if Captain David Petrie, of the local police, makes good the threats he made last night. The captain bitterly arraigned three drivers whose cars had been tagged by Officer Clark on Central street and warned them that a second violation of the law will mean court prosecution.

Police Superintendent Redmond Welch, when approached on the subject today, refused to be quoted, but stated that any action taken by Captain Petrie in dealing with traffic law violators would be approved by him. Asked point blank if he would allow court proceedings to be instituted against alleged traffic rules violators, the chief replied that he certainly would.

Captain Petrie's warning to the three men followed information given by Officer Clark who told how the three autos had been left standing on the right side of Central street for more than two hours, causing general inconvenience to traffic and particular hazard to fire apparatus, which last night was compelled to pass through that thoroughfare twice on business.

As Central street is at present undergoing repairs additional blocking by "dead" autos is particularly cumbersome, the police point out. Last night as the fire department was making a hasty run to a blaze the truck and ladder was forced to swerve on that part of Central street now under repair owing to automobiles that blocked the right side of the thoroughfare.

In speeding along the wet cement one of the horses attached to the truck slipped and was nearly pitched headlong on the pavement.

Captain Petrie believes that the traffic laws should be strenuously enforced on that street.

Complete Revision of Tax Bill

The conferees also agreed to the senate amendment repealing the $2000 normal exemption allowed corporations, except that this exemption would be continued in the case of corporations having net incomes of $25,000 a year or less.

FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING "TIPSY" AUTOISTS FINED

Fine of $200 in Liquor Case
Continued

Joseph M. Bedard, of Alken street, appealed to a $200 fine imposed by Judge Fisher for illegal keeping of intoxicating liquor when sentenced in the district court today. Sergt. Winn testified to having seized more than 100 gallons of "hop" beer on the defendant's premises on Nov. 2, besides many empty jugs and bottles and a machine used to cap bottles. An analysis of the beer by the state chemistry department showed the liquid to contain 4.37 per cent alcohol, the police told the court.

Cases Continued
Charges of manslaughter against Bernard E. McDermott and James A. Cudworth were put over, the former to Dec. 10 and the latter to Dec. 2, owing to the fact that reports from inquests held in connection with fatal accidents the two defendants and said to have been involved in have not yet been completed, the court was advised.

A charge of assault and battery against Albert Shasheen was filed and Lucien Blanchette was given a ten days' suspended sentence to the house of correction for drunkenness. Several minor cases were continued.

TUBERCULOSIS LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Northern Middlesex Tuberculosis league, which was held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon, the following officers were elected: President, Rev. Arthur C. Lyon; vice president, Dr. Edward A. Adams of Littleton; secretary, Mrs. J. D. Lambert of Tyngsboro; treasurer, Mr. James Walsh of Lowell. And the three directors elected were: Mrs. Walter Perham of Chelmsford Centre, Mrs. Charles Eames of Bedford, Mrs. W. P. Hadley of Billerica, and Mrs. E. H. Roberts of Wilmington. There was a large delegation present from the county representing local committee organizations from the towns of the county.

Mr. Robert V. Spencer, the state executive secretary, was present and presided at the meeting. Reports showed a larger interest in the seal sale which is the means of publicity for the league's work and the great amount of good work which is being done with the proceeds of the seal in child welfare, the health crusade, discovery of curable cases, malnutrition work among the children, and other lines of preventive and educational work.

The purpose of the county organization is for larger co-operation and the pooling of funds for a larger and more efficient service in the county.

FORM LOWELL BAR ASSOCIATION

At a recent meeting of the local lawyers a permanent organization to be known as the Lowell Bar association was perfected and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Hon. John J. Pickman, president; Hon. James E. O'Donnell, vice president; Joseph P. Donahue, secretary. The next meeting of the association will be held in the early part of January.

Three Defendants Found Guilty of Operating Automobiles While Intoxicated

Judge Frederic A. Fisher in the district court today found three men guilty of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor and imposed fines aggregating $200. The heaviest sentence, a $100 fine, was given to Phillis Rochette, who the police allege about two weeks ago figured in a collision with an electric car on Dutton street, and was shortly after arrested outside a garage near city hall. He was in an intoxicated condition, the prosecution told the court.

John H. Emery and Joseph Fredette were fined $50. All three paid. The court, in Emery's case, refused to entertain a request to recommend to the highway commission that the defendant's license be not revoked. "In view of the evidence I have heard in this case, I cannot justly grant that request," the justice stated. The lawyer for the accused had previously told the court that he had held a conference with State Registrar Goodwin and that the latter had expressed his intention of not revoking Emery's license if a recommendation to that effect would be made by the court.

Emery was operating a truck on Dunstable road, North of Lowell, on August 25, when arrested, according to evidence given by the police of that town. The accused on the stand stated he had taken two drinks of whiskey before starting out on the trip and was suffering from severe stomach trouble. A bag of corn mash, the police said, was in the truck. Emery said he made was for his cows.

After consulting the statute books at the request of the lawyer, the court ruled that the street in question might be a private way but it is used publicly. The police testified that the defendant was so drunk when arrested that he couldn't give his name or tell where he lived. Deputy Downey took the stand and told of seeing Fredette being taken into the station in an intoxicated condition.

Is Perkins street a private path or is it a public highway? That was the question at issue in the case of Joseph Fredette. The latter was arrested on that street last Monday afternoon while driving his machine in a condition which the police alleged to be due to too much liquor.

That Perkins street is private property, having never been accepted by the city as a public way, was stated to the court by counsel for the defense in the form of a written statement from the city engineer's department. The police argued that notwithstanding the fact that Perkins street is not a public way it is used as such and automobileists violating the law can be arrested there.

George H. Wade, charged with the same offense and fined $25 several weeks ago, was supposed to pay his fine today but the justice further allowed him until Monday to settle.

ONE OF TWO STOLEN CARS RECOVERED

One of two automobiles reported stolen from Lowell streets last night was recovered today. At 9.30 o'clock last night Mrs. Sabina G. Callahan of Boston road, North Billerica, mislaid her automobile from Church street, where she had parked it. The loss was reported to the police and a wide search was started. Early this morning the Tewksbury police reported that the auto had been abandoned near Mud pond, Tewksbury. It was found by John P. Gale of that town. As far as could be learned the machine was not injured.

A closed car belonging to Frank Gould of Lawrence, reported stolen from John street between 3.30 and 10.30 o'clock last night has not yet been located.

WHAT O'Sullivan Stands For Lower Taxes, Employment, Law Enforcement
TODAY
STREET RAILWAYS
The Public Trustees of the "Old Bay State" asked to have the St. Railway Excise Tax suspended—granted—Lowell loses $16,000 each year. These trustees asked to have Lowell help to finance the road—granted. This year Lowell pays $4681.32. Now the trustees are asking Lowell to reduce the valuation of the property and lower the taxes of the company—All without even giving us a waiting station. Let's call a halt. Let's have a Waiting Station, a Little Better Service, and a few more men. We need them.

LABOR
"Contract Labor" is not the solution of the problem of better streets. Under the new charter the public service commission, with a feasible plan and sufficient appropriations, will give us better streets, built by LOWELL LABOR, under the direction of experienced public spirited appointees to that board.

Where were these other candidates on the question of "CONTRACT LABOR"? EVERYONE KNOWS WHERE O'SULLIVAN STOOD.

If the New Charter is made effective we will have better government. Wherever in the New Charter it recites the word Mayor, substitute the name O'SULLIVAN and you read an instrument that means BETTER GOVERNMENT.
